8 Die in Air Crash as Engine Fails

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 26.—[Special.]—Unexplained failure of one motor of a twin engined, fourteen passenger Douglas DC-2 airliner resulted in a crash and fire here early today in which eight persons were killed and the four other occupants of the Braniff Airways plane were seriously injured.

Capt. Claude Seaton.

An investigation of the crash was started this afternoon by inspectors for the Civil Aeronautics authority, who said they would announce their findings as to the cause of the engine failure after inspecting the wreckage and talking with the pilot and co-pilot, both injured.

The plane crashed at the municipal airport at 2:50 a. m., a few minutes after taking off for continuation of its flight from Chicago to Brownsville, Tex., where it was due at 8:27 a. m. The plane left Chicago at 9:18 o'clock last night.

Turns Back to Airport.

Young Doggett, manager of the airport, and John Marcellus, radio operator, watched the plane lift into the air after a short run and begin a slow climb, then bank into the darkness. A few minutes later the pilot radioed that he was returning and asked that the airport lights be turned on. With the left wing slightly down, the plane struck a mound, ripping off the left wing and motor.

Bouncing into the air, the plane cleared two low fences and a narrow road and then fell just inside the airport boundary. When the left wing was ripped off the gasoline tank located between the engine nacelle and cabin was burst open. Fire started as the cabin came to rest. Seven passengers and the stewardess were incinerated.

Here Is List of Dead.

Those killed were:

MISS JOAN ALLAN, 840 Forest avenue, Evanston, Ill.

BENJAMIN COPLON, 2136 East 75th street, Chicago.

BERNARD G. GROSSMAN, 7 View street, Aurora, Ill.

MRS. ELIZABETH BURTNER HINCKLEY, San Benito, Tex., wife of Edward B. Hinckley, formerly of Wilmette, Ill.

MRS. GEORGIA SHELDON, Omaha, Neb.; western supervisor for the Photo Reflex studios of New York.

MISS LOUISE ZARR, Dallas, Tex., hostess aboard the plane.

R. T. BATE, Denver, Colo.

J. CLAIRE, Mexico City.

The injured were Capt. Claude Seaton, Dallas, Tex., pilot; Malcolm Wallace, Dallas, co-pilot; Earl C. Erickson, 5838 North Virginia avenue, Chicago, and Perry R. Smith, Corsicana, Tex., passengers.

Tries to Gain Altitude.

Seaton, a Braniff veteran of eight years' experience, and Wallace, were thrown clear when the pilot's cockpit was broken open by the crash. Erickson and Smith, seated in the rear of the cabin, escaped through the broken floor. All except Wallace had broken arms or legs. His head was injured and he suffered slight burns.

When Dr. H. D. Collins was giving first aid to Seaton the pilot told him the left motor failed when he was trying to gain altitude and that he tried to glide back into the airport.

Less seriously injured than the others, Erickson, a Chicagoan, from his hospital bed described the accident:

"I fought with my safety belt and was beginning to believe I never would get it unfastened. Then it came loose. There was a hole in the floor below me and my leg was caught. I don't know how in hell I got my leg free, but I did and dropped through the hole to the ground."

GYPSIES OF WPA TELL COPS GYP BUSINESS IS OUT

Gypsies are going to work. Many of them are on WPA. Fortune telling is out; people are getting too smart for the gypsy brand of gyppery.

This information was vouchsafed to Sergt. John Shanahan and other police officers at the detective bureau last night by John Stanley, 3233 West 19th street. Stanley and another gypsy, John Nichols, 1830 South Ridgeway avenue, were picked up at Ogden avenue and Lake street on suspicion.

"Gypsies are honest workers now," said Stanley. "I've been on a WPA mosquito extermination job for a year. My mother hasn't told a fortune in 12 years."

"Seems like I've seen some gypsies around, though," commented Sergt. Shanahan skeptically.

"O, they're Russian gypsies," said Stanley disdainfully. "They would steal the fillings out of your teeth. We of Romany and the WPA are different."

JAILER MURPHY REFUTES A SLUR AGAINST HIS PIPE

The nineteen prisoners at the Fillmore station voiced a complaint against Lockup Keeper Vincent Murphy. His pipe, they shouted, smoked like a chimney and smelled worse.

Murphy looked out the window and reported that across the alley the Dearborn Linen Supply company at 1116-26 South Pulaski road was burning. Smoke began pouring into the station and Desk Sergeant Patrick O'Malley transferred the prisoners to other stations.

Firemen extinguished the blaze after the interior of the one story structure was destroyed.

ESCORT BUREAU TAKES PERIL OUT OF BEING DRUNK

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Ken Maynard, estranged wife of the motion picture cowboy star, today announced the organization of an escort service to assist inebriated guests of night clubs, hotels, and private parties in reaching their homes safely. She has engaged a dozen husky college graduates as escorts.

Escaped Felon Adds Chapter to Life Story

Scrawled on crumpled hotel notepaper and crammed into his jacket pocket, Andrew Szimjonas carried the first chapter of a story of his life. "My father must have been glad 21 years ago when they said 'It's a boy!'" the story began. The family, it revealed, moved from a Cleveland tenement to a suburb so the son could have healthful surroundings.

"But I stole candy when I was 5," the story went on. "I liked to steal. I kept on stealing until——"

Last night the Jefferson Park police could bring the story up to date. Szimjonas, an escaped convict, admitted passing 250 forged pay checks under the name of Paul Baksa in Chicago in the last three months. He confessed a dozen mail box thefts. He said he stole $1,000 a month. Police said he would be held on an open charge for at least a week while they sought additional complainants.

A Convicted Burglar at 12.

Szimjonas was put on probation for burglary when he was 12 years old. At 13 he was sent to Hudson Reform farm [which is near Cleveland and is similar to the St. Charles School for Boys] for 6 months for burglary. At 14 the young burglar did another 8 months' stretch. At 15 he was put on probation, again for burglary. On Jan. 2, 1937, he began a sentence of 15 to 90 years in Mansfield, O., for a $2,800 jewel theft.

Last May 15 Szimjonas and another convict walked away from the prison honor farm. Szimjonas came to Chicago. He got a job as watchman for the Sherlen Press, Inc., 1050 Fullerton avenue.

New Year's night Szimjonas stole all the blank checks he could find in the Sherlen office and in the offices of four other firms in the same building. He also took a few canceled checks to obtain samples of officials' signatures. Next day he bought a check printing machine. He procured six social security identification cards in various names.

Cashes Checks Readily.

Chain groceries, department stores, and shoe stores cashed his checks readily. Always traveling by taxicab, he took small purchases home to the family he was living with at 1532 Walton street. Small boys were his innocent helpers in many cases. He would approach one on the street.

"I've got a brother about your size," he would say. "I want to surprise him with some shoes. Come on in and help me get the right fit." Then he would pay for the shoes with a bogus check, pocket the change, and walk out. He gave the boys quarters and sometimes let them keep the shoes.

Szimjonas was seized Saturday in the Klee brothers store at 4017 Milwaukee avenue when he tendered a Sherlen Press check, about which all merchants had been warned. Policeman George Fisher summoned Sergt. Tip O'Neill, who had been close on Szimjonas' trail of bouncing paper.

With O'Neill spurring Szimjonas' memory with evidence he already had collected, the convict made his confession yesterday to Capt. Herbert Burns and Lieut. John Walsh.

There are many pages of official looking notes, now, to go with the scribbled early chapters of Szimjonas' life.

CLIPPER SPEEDS OVER ATLANTIC AHEAD OF SCHEDULE ON TEST HOP

Baltimore, Md., March 27 [Monday]. —(AP)—Pan-American Airways reported at 12:30 a. m. eastern standard time [11:30 p. m. Chicago time Sunday] that the flying boat Yankee Clipper was 1,677 miles from Baltimore on its flight to Horta, the Azores. Officers radioed the cruising speed was 167 miles an hour, altitude 8,300 feet, and "visibility excellent."

The Clipper, which soon is to inaugurate passenger service to Europe, roared away at 1:34 p. m. yesterday, carrying twenty-one men, the largest number ever to fly the Atlantic in a heavier than air machine.

Aided by tail winds, the huge boat was flying considerably faster than its cruising speed. It was believed the aiding winds might reduce the flying time to its first port, Horta, in the Azores, 2,448 miles from here, to less than the eighteen hours which Capt. Harold E. Gray, commander of the Clipper, estimated for the trip.

The flight is being made as a routine shakedown trip to five European bases.

"How long does it take to boil a three minute egg at 8,000 feet?" radioed the Clipper's steward as he planned breakfast. The staf at the base here made some inquiries and replied: "Twelve minutes."

FRANCO STARTS HEAVY DRIVE ON LOYALIST LINES

Big Gains Reported in Cordoba Sector.

BULLETIN.

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), March 27 (Monday). —(AP)—Border reports today said that the Madrid national defense council had decided to surrender the capital despite the collapse of peace negotiations with the nationalists. A mass surrender of republican southern troops before Franco's attacks against Almaden was said to have hastened this decision. Nationalist sources reported Madrid defenses were almost deserted.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], March 26.—(AP)—The Madrid defense council announced tonight that negotiations with the Spanish nationalists for surrender of the capital had broken down after Generalissimo Francisco Franco launched a new offensive to end the thirty-two month old civil war.

An announcement from the Union radio station said the government was taking "measures of defense" after the nationalists broke off the peace parley.

The announcement blasted hopes for an early end of the civil war and the almost twenty-nine month old siege of Madrid. It indicated a final bitter struggle was coming.

Strike in Cordoba Sector.

The nationalists launched their offensive in the Cordoba sector 150 miles south of Madrid, which advices here indicated was progressing toward Jaen, twenty-five miles from the starting point.

[The Burgos radio station said the nationalist attack crumbled the loyalist defenses at several points with motorized units advancing more than twenty-five miles. It was said the troops reached and passed the towns of Santa Eufemia and Pozoblanco and occupied dozens of small communities in an area embracing more than 228 square miles. "Thousands of prisoners" and several batteries of artillery were taken, Burgos said.]

The Burgos radio station broadcast that offensives in other sectors would be started swiftly unless the Madrid government surrendered.

Loyalists Offer Plan.

The Madrid radio said the defense junta headed by Gen. José Miaja had offered an eight point plan for surrender, but that the nationalists demanded an immediate symbolic handing over of the Madrid air force by yesterday and broke off negotiations when the government was unable to fulfill this demand.

Two government officers who had been negotiating with the nationalists at Burgos returned to Madrid.

"We denounce before the world and before all Spaniards complete responsibility of the nationalist government, which prolongs a carnage which has ravaged Spain for more than two years," Juan del Rio, secretary of the defense council, said in his broadcast.

"Our line of conduct always has been to negotiate peace and all our efforts have been directed toward this goal."

Respect for Spanish Territory.

The conditions for the surrender offered by the republican government were:

1. Nationalist respect for "integrity of the territory" of Spain.
2. "Maximum regard" for civilians and soldiers who participated in the war.
3. A guarantee of no reprisals.
4. Respect for the life, liberty, and interests of soldiers.
5. The same for militiamen.
6. The same for government officials.
7. A twenty-five day period for the departure of persons wishing to flee.

Demand White Flag.

8. Withdrawal of Italian and Moorish troops from Spain.

Del Rio said Burgos agreed to the guarantees requested but ended the negotiations because of the government's failure to hand over the air force. Del Rio said the government could not meet all the demands of the nationalists in the short time allowed.

Del Rio asserted the nationalists said: "Our offensive is prepared. Our advance is now imminent. We require you to hoist the white flag on the fronts concerned."

The suddenness of the attack in the Cordoba sector was believed largely responsible for the big breaks reported in the republican lines.

DUCE'S DEMANDS PUT ROOSEVELT'S POLICIES ON SPOT

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—The chief effect in Washington of Premier Mussolini's territorial demands on France was to place the Roosevelt foreign policy on the spot.

Senator William E. Borah.

Reaction among public officials indicated that a large segment of the Democratic party will refuse to follow the President in giving aid to Great Britain and France to protect their colonies from seizure by Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Mussolini.

With Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] emerging in a speech last night as the logical leader of the opposition to the Roosevelt foreign program, the indications are that the dissident Democrats will join with the Republicans in an effort to keep the United States from becoming entangled in the European quarrel over territories.

Future Policy in Dark.

The President and Secretary of State Cordell Hull were inaccessible tonight; wherefore there was unobtainable any authoritative pronouncement indicating whether the administration will persist in its policy of aiding Britain and France, notwithstanding the risk of involving the United States in a war to defend French territorial interests.

Also inaccessible were Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, both of whom have distinguished themselves of late as baiters of the European dictators.

Senator Lewis Joins Revolt.

It soon became evident, however, that administration leaders are far from a unit in support of the Roosevelt foreign policy, now that Mussolini's demands have made it evident that the United States is being called upon to defend the territorial integrity of the French colonial empire. Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.], a member of the foreign relations committee, disassociated himself from any policy involving the United States in defending France from Mussolini's demands.

"The disposition of Tunisia, Djibouti and the Suez canal is none of our business," said Senator Lewis. "We must and will keep our hands off these foreign quarrels just as we shall insist that these foreign powers keep their hands off our interests."

Wants No Hand in Quarrel.

Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], another administration wheelhorse and member of the foreign relations committee, declared against any policy envisaging American intervention in the territorial row between Mussolini and France.

"This is purely a matter of territory," said Senator Borah. "There is nothing else involved. Certainly the United States will not waste the taxpayers' money or the lives of its young men to determine who shall own that territory. It doesn't make the slightest difference to the people of the United States whether Tunisia is held by Italy or France."

Senator Borah, in his speech last night, attacked the Roosevelt foreign policy as tending to involve the United States in war in defense of British and French imperialism.

Britain "Hitler's Best Friend."

"Since Hitler became master of Germany he has had no better friend than the British government," said the Idaho senator. "Apparently regarding arbitrary, centralized government in Europe as the best guarantee of stability, it has built up Hitler's strength and favored his cause in every crucial situation.

"What the democracies are contending for is the realization of their imperialistic schemes and not the destruction of Nazism. I will call the roll of the states who can testify to this fact: China, Ethiopia, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, and the Republic of Spain.

"For myself, I would adhere closely to the advice of Washington—no entangling alliances, expressed or implied. I would send no money to European war chests, no munitions to any nation engaged in war, and above all, no American boy to be sacrificed to the machinations of European imperialism."

MUSSOLINI LAYS DOWN DEMANDS; UP TO FRANCE

Awaits Paris Offer to Negotiate.

(Radiophoto on back page.)

ROME, March 26. — (AP) — Premier Mussolini told France today that she can get along with him if she is willing to agree to Italy's demands concerning Tunisia, Djibouti, and the Suez canal. Just how big these demands are Il Duce did not reveal.

[Turn to page 3 for map and explanation of Italy's claim.]

However, he insisted that while he was willing to negotiate any offers on the colonial dispute must come from France.

Il Duce did not make any threat against French soil, but his speech was filled with thunder against democracies, brotherhood of nations, and pacifists. He insisted that foreign relations are founded on force and declared Italy must continue to arm at whatever cost, "even if it should mean wiping out all that is called civil life."

Awaits France's Reaction.

And tonight Rome awaited word on France's reaction. French officials, according to dispatches from Paris, were reported to be pleased with the "mildness" of Mussolini's speech. It was also said that the French are willing to dicker with him, but are still adament against giving up any part of the French empire.

Facing cheering Black Shirt followers at a celebration of the 20th anniversary of the founding of the first Fascist combat squad, Il Duce for the first time put the official stamp on the clamor for concessions from France raised in the now extinct chamber of deputies last Nov. 30.

Proclaims Five Point Policy.

Mussolini proclaimed a five point Fascist policy in foreign affairs:

FIRST—Although Italy considers long peace necessary for European civilization, she refuses "solicitations" to take the first step until her "sacred rights" are recognized,

SECOND—Italy adheres to the axis with Germany, threatening attack if a democratic coalition is formed against the authoritarian states.

THIRD—Italy has colonial problems with France in Tunisia, Djibouti, and the Suez canal of which Paris was informed in a note last Dec. 17.

FOURTH—Italy considers her interests predominant in both the Mediterranean and Adriatic seas but does not exclude Slav interests.

FIFTH— Italy, believing that force governs international relations, must arm herself with more guns, ships, and airplanes even at the cost of completely militarizing the country.

Refers to Italian Note.

Mussolini refrained from making any territorial demands nor did he even intimate that Italian troops would try to occupy any French soil as the German army did in Czecho-Slovakia.

"In the Italian note of Dec. 17, 1938, the Italian problems with France were clearly set forth, problems of a colonial character," he said.

"These problems have a name. They are called Tunisia, Djibouti and the Suez canal. [Tunisia is a French protectorate in North Africa and Djibouti is a strategic port on the Gulf of Aden.]

"The French government is perfectly free to refuse us even the simplest discussion of these problems as it has done up to now through its too often repeated and perhaps too categorical 'jamais' [never].

"But it cannot complain later if the ditch which now separates the two countries becomes so deep that filling it becomes hard work, if not impossible.

"Relations of Force."

"No matter how things go we wish to hear no more about brotherhood, sisterhood, cousins and other such bastard relationships because relationships between states are relations of force and these relations of force are the determining elements of their policy."

Mussolini excused Germany's dissolution of Czecho-Slovakia. He not only refused to join in the displeasure of London and Paris at Germany's eastward advance through Czecho-Slovakia but also warned that Italy and Germany would attack Britain and France if they formed a coalition against the dictatorships. He said:

"I declare that if the great democratic explicit manner that what happened in central Europe was fated to happen.

"I declare that if the great de-mocracies weep bitterly over the premature and somewhat dishonorable end of what was their dearest creature, this is a perfect reason for us not to associate ourselves with their more or less decent tears.

"I add that if the problem be placed on the level of morals, nobody—I say nobody—has the right to throw the first stone as the ancient and modern history of Europe abundantly demonstrates. I say that when a people which had very many men and immense arsenals is not capable of a gesture, this demonstrates that it is overripe for its new fate.

"And I say that if the longed for constitution of a coalition against the authoritarian régimes should come about, these régimes would take up the challenge and would pass from defense to counterattack at all points."

In his partnership with Hitler, Mussolini maintained for Italy predominate interests in both the Mediterranean and Adriatic seas, but he reassured Jugo-Slavia of the safety of her Adriatic interests by saying Italy's were "not exclusive as regards the Slavs."

Get Unpleasant Surprise.

The first reaction in diplomatic circles to Il Duce's speech was divided between unpleasant surprise by some observers at Il Duce's acceptance of the policy that foreign relations are founded on force, and relief, expressed by others, at what they considered a conciliatory gesture toward France.

This conciliatory tone they found in Mussolini's statement that the imminent fall of Madrid to Spanish Nationalists would "demolish" a barricade of opposite sympathies between Paris and Rome in the Spanish civil war.

Some observers expressed belief that "solicitations" mentioned by the premier must have come from Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain possibly on his visit to Rome last January.

Martial Words Expected.

Mussolini's strong tone was discounted partly in political quarters as being necessary in addressing veterans of his Fascist combat squads who would expect martial words.

Some diplomats, however, said they had been led to expect a more moderate speech. They held to an optimistic attitude, nevertheless, at least until they could learn France's reaction to the now official bid for recognition of Italy's "natural aspirations."

They noted with satisfaction that Italy had excluded Corsica and Nice. The names of both French territories were raised by deputies in the outburst almost four months ago that was aroused by a speech of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano referring to Italy's aspirations.

Four hours after Mussolini had spoken, the government divulged both a congratulatory telegram that Hitler sent yesterday and Il Duce's reply.

Hitler's telegram said Germans "stand shoulder to shoulder with the battle proved Italian nation in defense against all hateful attempts to restrict the justified will for living of our two peoples and to shake the peace of the world." Mussolini's message said: "Our two revolutionary movements are destined to crack the reactionary and conservative positions of the old world."

TEXT OF SPEECH

ROME, March 26.—(AP)—Following is the text of Premier Mussolini's address today commemorating the 20th anniversary of the founding of the first Fascist combat squad:

"Comrades of the vigil [founding of Fascism]! Faithful squadristi of the first and all hours:

"It is with profound emotion that I speak to you twenty years after the founding of the Italian Fascist combat squad.

"While looking you squarely in the eye, I see again so many days that we have lived together—sad, stormy, dramatic days but always unforgettable.

Tells of Fascist Triumph.

"On March 23, 1919, we raised the black banner of the Fascist revolution, forerunner of European renaissance. Around this banner your squadrons gathered, formed of veterans of the trenches and of the very young. We decided to march against cowardly government, against disintegrating oriental theories, to free the people from the nefarious influx of principles of the world of '89 [an apparent reference to Italy's aversion to democratic principles of the French revolution].

"Around this banner there fell fighting like heroes in the most Roman sense of the word thousands of comrades in streets and squares of Italy, in Africa and in Spain—comrades whose memory is ever alive and present in our hearts.

"There may be some one who has forgotten the very hard years of the founding, but the men of these squads have not forgotten them, cannot forget them. It may be that in the meantime some have sat down but the men of these squads are on foot ready to take up musket and to jump on the trucks, as you did in the expeditions of that time.

Revolution Not Finished.

"The men of these squads can say to him who stays at home too much that the revolution is not finished but from the point of view of customs, character, and social distances it has scarcely begun.

"I leave to others the task of striking a balance of our labor in this first twenty-year period of Fascism. The balance sheet is gigantic.

"What we have done is destined to remain and will remain through the centuries.

"Nor do I waste time comparing Italy of 1919—deluded, restless, disorganized, infected with bolshevism as a nation not victorious but defeated—with the Italy of 1939, orderly, disciplined, creative, warlike, imperial.

"But it might be worth-while to remember how many times the demoplutocratic factory of liars announced to the now scattered flocks of their beaten sheep the approaching imminent, certain ruin of Fascist Italy on the fiction that it was bled in Africa and still more in Spain and, therefore, had urgent need of a loan which naturally could only come from the British.

"That is not true.

Predicts Important Events.

"What really is true is that this Fascist Italy still is as unknown even in the age of radio as the farthest and most remote regions of the earth.

"What we have done is important but for us what we shall do is more important. And we shall do it because my will knows no obstacles and because your enthusiasm and your spirit of sacrifice are intact.

"You are not my bodyguard. You are above all, and you wish to be, the bodyguard of the revolution and the Fascist régime.

"Comrade squadristi, your gathering, which is the culminating manifestation of the celebrations of the first twenty years of Fascism, takes place in a serious moment in the life of Europe.

"We are not carried away and we will not be carried away by that which now is known as the war psychosis, a mixture of hysteria and fear.

"Our course of navigation is definite and our principles are clear.

"Listen with necessary attention and discretion.

Pacifists Attacked.

"First, as regards the professional pacifists, they are particularly detestable individuals. And as regards the word peace, it is by now virtually worn out from much use and rings falsely like counterfeit money.

"However well it may be known that we consider a perpetual peace as a catastrophe for human civilization, we also consider a long period of peace necessary to safeguard Europe and the development of European civilization.

"Further, as regards recent solicitations, we shall take no initiative whatsoever until our sacred rights are recognized.

"Second, the period of waltzing, if it ever existed, is definitly closed. The memory of it is offensive to us and to all Italians.

"The attempts to crack and break the Rome-Berlin axis are childish. The axis is not only a relationship between two states. It is a meeting between two revolutions which have shown themselves as opposed to all other conceptions of contemporary civilization. Here is the strength of the axis. And here are the conditions of its duration.

"But since in every action there is always a share of superficial motives which sometimes replace reason, I am here to tell you in the most explicit manner that what happened in central Europe was fated to happen.

"I declare that if the great democracies weep bitterly over the premature and somewhat dishonorable end of what was their dearest creature, this is a perfect reason for us not to associate ourselves with their more or less decent tears.

"I add that if the problem be placed on the level of morals, nobody—I say nobody—has the right to throw the first stone as the ancient and modern history of Europe abundantly demonstrates. I say that when a people which had very many men and immense arsenals is not capable of a gesture, this demonstrates that it is overripe for its new fate.

Refers to Spanish Barricade.

"And I say that if the longed for constitution of a coalition against the authoritarian régimes should come about, these régimes would take up the challenge and would pass from defense to counterattack at all points.

"In my Genoa speech I spoke of a barricade which separated Italy from France. This barricade may be considered sufficiently demolished and within a few days, perhaps a few hours, the magnificent infantry of Nationalist Spain will deliver the last blow and that Madrid where the leftists expected the tomb of Fascism will be, instead, the tomb of bolshevism.

"Thirdly, we do not ask the world's judgment, but we desire the world to be informed. Well, then, in the Italian note of Dec. 17, 1938, the Italian problems with France were clearly set forth, problems of a colonial character. These problems have a name. They are called Tunisia, Djibouti, and the Suez canal.

"The French government is perfectly free to refuse us even the simplest discussion of these problems as it has done up to now through its too often repeated and too categorical 'jamais' [never].

"But it cannot complain later if the ditch which now separates the two countries becomes so deep that filling it becomes hard work, if not impossible.

Tells Italy to Arm.

"No matter how things go, we wish to hear no more about brotherhood, sisterhood, cousins, and such other bastard relationships, because relationships between states are relations of force, and these relations of force are the determining elements of their policy.

"Fourthly, geographically, historically, politically, and militarily, the Mediterranean is a vital spot for Italy. When we say the Mediterranean we naturally include the gulf which is called the Adriatic and in which Italy's interests are preëminent but not exclusive as regards the Slavs. It is for that reason that peace has reigned there for two years.

"Fifthly, last but fundamental and damaging: We must arm. The watchword is this: More cannon, more ships, more airplanes, at whatever cost, with whatever means, even if it should mean wiping out all that is called civil life.

"When one is strong one is dear to one's friends and feared by one's enemies. Since prehistoric times one shout has come down on the waves of the centuries and the series of generations: 'Woe to the weak!'

"Comrades Squadristi, the glorious Black Shirt with which we have fought and will fight is adorned today with a decoration of which you should be particularly proud, a decoration red in color, the red of our blood and of others which we are ready to shed when the interests of Italy are at stake.

"This is your day—your great day. Now, then, with your courage and your sacrifice, with your faith you have given a powerful impulse to the wheel of history.

"Now I ask you:

"Do you wish honors?

"Rewards?

"A comfortable life?

"Does the impossible exist for you?

"What are three words which form your dogma? Believe, obey, fight!

"In these three words was, is, and will be the secret of every victory!"

PREDICTS ITALY'S FALL TO GERMANY IF NAZIS' CONQUESTS CONTINUE

SYDNEY, Australia, March 26.—(AP)—W. M. Hughes, Australian minister of external affairs, asserted today that the Rome-Berlin axis may merely earn Italy "the right to fall last."

"Italy now acclaims Germany's conquests," Hughes said in a radio broadcast.

"But woe to Italy if Germany continues until all Europe is prostrate at her feet for Germany's allies will then find they merely earned the right to fall last."

MR. YAMAMOTA IS SO SORRY! HE'S NO CHARLIE CHAN

Among the suspects on view at the detective bureau showup yesterday were Chester Bator, 20 years old, 879 North Wood street, and Samuel Gorgan, 24, of 730 Throop street. Sergt. John Noonan, who arrested them, said they had records as small time shoplifters.

"They're the men who held me up this morning at 645 Madison street," charged Richard Yamamota, 666 Madison.

"Are you sure?" asked Sergt. Edward Donovan.

"Positive," replied the holdup victim.

"The arrest slips show these men were picked up at 4 p. m. Friday," said Donovan. They've been here ever since."

"So sorry," said Yamamota.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN ACT TO SETTLE FISHERIES ROW

MOSCOW, March 26.—(AP)—Diplomatic circles today voiced a belief that a compromise in the fisheries dispute, which has been disturbing relations between Japan and soviet Russia, was not far off.

The belief was based on a conversation between Maxim Litvinov, commissar of foreign affairs, and Shigenori Togo, Japanese ambassador to Moscow. Both sides were reported to have made concessions.

The soviet government was expected to hold new fishery auctions early next month as scheduled but it was said to have agreed to reserve 200 so-called stabilized lots for the Japanese. Japan, on her side, was said to have agreed to the withdrawal of 40 lots which the Russian government regards as in strategically important soviet waters.

[The first of this year's auctions of fishing rights along Russia's Siberian coasts were held March 15 in Vladivostok without Japanese participation. More are scheduled for April 3.]

ITALIANS COVET 3 PLACES IN AFRICA AND THIS IS WHY

Tunisia, Djibouti, Suez Important to Empire.

Premier Mussolini yesterday laid his cards on the table and pointed to three places in Africa which he described as constituting Italy's colonial problem with France. The three are:

SUEZ CANAL.

Rome demands a share in the administration of this narrow, manmade body of water stretching 100 miles between the Mediterranean sea and the Red sea. Since Italy's conquest of Ethiopia the canal is a vital link in the empire lifeline of Italy as well as Great Britain.

Italy is now the second greatest user of the canal, exceeded only by Britain. To send her ships through she must pay heavily in gold, which to a country not operated on gold currency, is a double burden, Italians contend.

Fascists base their claims for a hand in the canal's control largely on the canal company's 1856 charter which stipulated that it was to be an international body, administered by a council of thirty-two chosen from "the countries most interested in the undertaking." Fascists argue that in 1939 this means Italy.

The administrative power is now in the hands of nineteen Frenchmen, ten Britons, representing the British government, two Egyptians, and one Netherlander.

A Dream of Napoleon.

The canal, which was opened in 1869, was built at a cost of $100,000,000 by an international syndicate after Napoleon Bonaparte recognized the military importance of such a waterway. Napoleon abandoned the idea of building the canal when French engineers advised against it in 1798.

Ferdinand de Lesseps, French vice consul in Alexandria, obtained a concession from the khedive of Egypt to build the canal in 1854. In 1858 he went to London to get British support but was turned down.

To finance the project De Lesseps issued stock that year—400,000 shares with a par value of $100. In less than a month, 314,000 shares had been subscribed—200,000 in France, 96,000 by the Ottoman empire, and others elsewhere. No stock was sold in England or the United States.

Disraeli's Coup Recalled.

In 1859 ground was broken and ten years later the canal was completed. Even then the British took no interest. But in England at the time was Benjamin Disraeli, who as a student had visited Egypt. This visit had given him an inside knowledge of Britain's needs to maintain her supremacy in the east.

As prime minister of England in 1875, he achieved a brilliant coup. Ismail Pasha, khedive of Egypt, was broke. Disraeli borrowed $20,000,000 from Baron Rothschild. In the name of the British government he bought 177,000 shares of Suez canal stock which the khedive had accumulated.

Since then the business management of the canal has been controled by French citizens—the government has no part in the undertaking. In 1914, the defense of the waterway was turned over to Britain. The Suez Canal company will retain control of the body of water until 1968 when it reverts to the Egyptian government.

DJIBOUTI.

This East African port on the gulf of Aden is the capital of French Somaliland. It is near the mouth of the Red sea. The Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway, providing Italy's Ethiopian hinterland with its best outlet, is owned and operated by a French company.

The Fascists maintain Djibouti is a "thorn in the side of our East African empire," and the railroad a badly managed "prehistoric" means of transport exacting an exorbitant toll from Italian trafic. Italians point out that all but fifty-five miles of the railroad's 484 miles run through Italian territory.

Italians Want Free Zone.

Italians have been clamoring for a free zone for Italian shipping in Djibouti, lower rates on the railroad to Addis Ababa, and a larger proportion of Italian share in its management. Some have gone so far as to demand the port be turned over to Italy.

French Somaliland lies between the Italian colony of Eritrea and British Somaliland. The French started occupying this territory in 1884. In 1888 the territory was delimited by agreement with Britain and a port was created at Djibouti. The colony has an area of about 8,492 square miles with a population of 56,000.

TUNISIA.

This North African country has been a smoldering volcano of French-Italian bitterness for fifty-eight years since France declared a protectorate over the territory in 1881.

Only about 250 miles from the tip of the Italian boot with the islands of Sicily and Panteleria as stepping stones, Tunisia is a direct route to Italy's North African possession of Libya. It would be of great strategic importance in establishing Italian domination of the Mediterranean.

Of Tunisia's 2,000,000 inhabitants more than 90,000—almost half of the protectorate's European population—are Italians. Last Dec. 24 Italy denounced the Laval-Mussolini accord of 1935, which, among other things, gave various rights to Italians in Tunisia until 1965.

Independence Urged.

Although Italy covets Tunisia, informed Fascists said these concessions might satisfy Mussolini:

Independence of the country, allowing Italy full control of Italians there, or putting the territory under the French, British, German, and Italian control, or French recognition of full Italian citizenship rights for the Italian population in perpetuity.

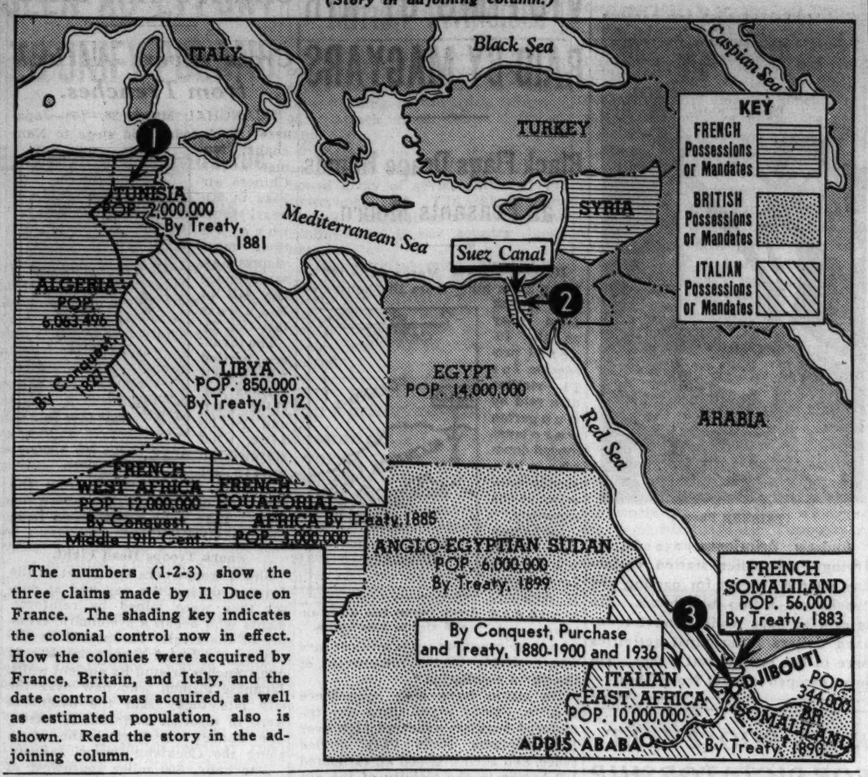
Sid Ahmed is the bey of Tunis. Born in 1862, he took the throne in 1929. The reigning family of Tunisia, occupants of the throne since 1705, descend from Hussein ben Ali. He was believed to have been a native of the Isle of Crete who made himself master of the country, acknowledging, however, the suzerainty of the sultan of Turkey.

After the French invasion of the country in the spring of 1881, a treaty placed Tunisia under the protectorate of France. The government is carried on under the direction of the French foreign office under the control of a French minister resident general and a ministry of eleven heads of departments. Eight of the ministers are French and three are Tunisians.

Tunisia has an area of about 48,300 square miles. The boundaries on the north and east are the Mediterranean, on the west the Algerian province of Constantine, and on the south the great desert of the Sahara and Libya.

Mussolini's Territorial Claims on France

(Story in adjoining column.)



The numbers (1-2-3) show the three claims made by Il Duce on France. The shading key indicates the colonial control now in effect. How the colonies were acquired by France, Britain, and Italy, and the date control was acquired, as well as estimated population, also is shown. Read the story in the adjoining column.

FRENCH RECALL DAY WHEN FOCH ASSUMED COMMAND OF ALLIES

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 26.—Gen. Maxime Weygand today urged resistance to violence. He spoke at ceremonies in Doullens, commemorating the meeting there at which Marshal Ferdinand Foch was named supreme commander of the allies.

He recalled that before Doullens the allies had suffered a severe defeat. Referring to the present situation, he said:

"We have just a new battle for frontiers. We must face the situation without pessimism, without optimism, by opposing threats, the breaking of contracts, and brutal force, with a resolution for unity in politics and in factories, and unity between honest peoples. If Foch were here today he would cry, 'Courage, stout hearts! There is not a moment to lose.'"

8 IN FAMILY DIE AS RIVER FLOODS CANADIAN TOWN

DAWSON CREEK, B. C., March 26.—(AP)—With eight members of one family dead, British Columbia officers effected daring rescues of half a dozen other persons today as the ice-laden Murray river wiped out much of the town of East Pine, fifty miles west of here.

FRENCH PREMIER FRAMES A REPLY TO DUCE'S SPEECH

Paris Believes Crisis Is Postponed for Time.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 26.—French government spokesmen maintained diplomatic silence today while the foreign office began a careful study of Premier Mussolini's speech inviting France to sit down to a colonial Munich.

The official attitude is that this country's response will be given either directly or by implication by Premier Edouard Daladier when he delivers a foreign policy address which is to be broadcast in six languages, including Italian, German, and Arabic, probably next Wednesday.

For the moment, sources close to the government are content to point out that while Mussolini made it clear he was determined to have a showdown he made it equally clear that he did not intend to precipitate an immediate crisis.

New Deal for Fascism.

The section of the rightist press which has all along been favorable to trying to reach a friendly settlement with Il Duce seems far from discouraged by the bluntness with which the latter laid down his demand for a new deal for Fascism in Tunisia as well as over the Suez canal and Djibouti. The newspaper Le Petit Parisien, which is favorable to the policies of Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, suggests that the way is open for Mussolini to start negotiations through the embassies at any time he likes.

It is the view of impartial observers here that the French have no real objection to giving very generous concessions to Rome regarding Suez and Djibouti.

Tunisia a Different Matter.

The question of Tunisia is altogether different. The extent to which the government will be willing to give the Italians a preferred position depends on several factors. Among them are the question of how much it could induce French public opinion to accept in the way of concessions and the question of guarantees which could be obtained from Mussolini in regard to his future rôle in the Mediterranean and its African coast.

The chief concern of the French is not to give Mussolini a foothold in Tunisia, which he might immediately use to renew aggressive demands in the improved strategic position.

SLAYER OF CHILD PUT TO DEATH IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Bellefonte, Pa., March 27 [Monday].—(AP)—Roy Lockard, 29 years old, former Altoona WPA worker, died in the electric chair early today for the slaying of his one-time sweetheart's young son.

Lockard was convicted with Mrs. Margaret Karmendi, 27 year old wife of a silk mill worker, of killing 3 year old Matthew "Sonny" Karmendi in 1936 because, Lockard testified, he "interfered with our dates." The state charged Mrs. Karmendi held the child while Lockard struck him on the head with a railroad spike. Twice sentenced to death, Mrs. Karmendi in a third trial was given a ten to twenty year prison sentence.

"If I have to go it just won't be justice," declared Lockard last night. "She got off with a few years in prison, but I must pay with my life."

Lockard, first sentenced to die in 1937, has had fifteen reprieves.

HUNGARY VICTOR IN 3 DAY WAR; FIX SLOVAK BORDER

Open Parley in Budapest Today to Settle Row.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 26.—Hungary's three day war with Slovakia has come to an end with the Hungarians completely victorious. As a result, the western boundaries of Hungary's new province of Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenia] will be on the crest of the mountains to the west of the Ung river. The railway from Budapest north to Poland will be entirely in Hungarian hands.

The exact marking of the new boundary will be decided by a mixed Hungarian-Slovak commission. The Slovak members are due to arrive in Budapest tomorrow.

[A report from Bratislava received in Berlin tonight said Hungarians had attacked Slovaks near Stakcin, but were repulsed. It was also reported Hungarian artillery shelled Revisita this morning.]

Stories of Events Differ.

As for the events of the last few days in southern and eastern Slovakia, two versions are given—one Slovak, and one Hungarian. Confirmation of either story was out of the question. On an extensive automobile tour of the area the Tribune correspondent and other newsmen were treated as spies by both Hungarians and Slovaks. There were disagreeable moments when youthful Slovak Hlinka Guards shoved rifles in our faces. The sight of a red American passport produced no effect on them whatever.

Either they had never seen one before or they had no respect for it. Judging from some conversations it was concluded the majority of Slovakia's young army never heard of the United States.

A reconstruction of events, however, indicated some fighting and loss of life. Hungarians tonight officially admitted a casualty list of twenty-four soldiers killed outright and more than seventy wounded. They claim also to have brought down eleven Slovak planes. Funerals were held yesterday and today in and near Ungvar for Slovak officers killed in plane crashes. At these funerals, the official statement said, Hungarian officers eulogized the valor of their adversaries.

It was also admitted that Hungarian planes flew deep into Slovak territory and destroyed the airport of the almost entirely German city of Iglo. One boy was killed there. Ten other victims were woodcutters and charcoal burners in nearby forests where some of the Hungarian bombs fell. The town was draped in black today as funerals were held.

Hungarians Satisfied.

Hungarians indicated today that they were extremely satisfied with their military operations. They have added to their country about 4,247 square miles of territory and about 550,000 new inhabitants. The area of the new Hungary will be about 45,073 square miles and its population about 10,700,000.

Hungarians admit the territory of Carpatho-Ukraine is no great economic gain, but it has forests, which are important, and salt mines.

Whether the Germans aided the Hungarians is not known. It can only be pointed out that no German troops were near the places attacked, while other parts of Slovakia were heavily garrisoned. It is also noteworthy that the German detachments which had been occupying Bratislava have moved out and the Slovaks now are trembling for the safety of their capital.

They have reason to tremble because the Hungarians say they have never renounced their claims to "the ancient Hungarian city of Pozsony." Pozsony is the Hungarian name for Bratislava. In fact, Hungarians never have renounced their claims to all Slovakia and feel confident Germany will soon turn it over to them and put an end to what they consider the farcical government of Slovakia by Slovaks.

RAPS ROOSEVELT FOR DICTATORSHIP OVER PORTO RICO

Island Senator Assails 'Political Slavery.'

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 26.—Rafael Martinez Nadal, president of the Porto Rican senate and leader in the islands' movement for statehood, yesterday assailed the American government's exercise of Fascist control of Porto Rico. He suggested members of the legislature give up their posts and allow the Washington authorities to step in and assume full control here.

In a speech to the senate, Nadal declared "we legislators are only playing a comedy." He asked why the island's leaders sacrifice themselves in useless political campaigns merely to take orders from Washington. He charged the Roosevelt administration "forced the legislature" to pass bills prepared in the federal capital by threatening to cut off federal appropriations.

Assails "Political Slavery."

"The United States boasts of its democracy and feels itself authorized to combat all threats against democratic principles, but governs Porto Rico like Fascists and unlike a republican nation," he added.

He affirmed that the island, in spite of the peoples' culture, civilization, and earnest efforts to assimilate democratic principles and its wise handling of internal affairs, had been held for more than forty years "in political slavery."

He criticized the trade treaty with Cuba, a "foreign, independent nation" whose sugar and other products were given an advantage over Porto Rico in the American market. He pointed out the wage and hours law was applied here but was not applied to the Philippines, giving the latter's needlework market an advantage.

Jews Get Preference.

The senator said that although it universally is recognized that the island's greatest problem is overpopulation, which the United States should seek to relieve by arranging for transplanting excess population to Venezuela, Santo Domingo, and Colombia, instead the American government is planning to transplant 100,000 German Jews to Santo Domingo.

"Thus," he said, "German Jews inspire more pity in the United States than the American citizens of Porto Rico, dying of hunger as a result of American laws."

Nadal said the New Deal's reconstruction measures give the island three or four million dollars annually but take fifteen or twenty millions in the same period through hostile trade legislation.

Concluding, the senate president defied the Washington authorities to punish him and his friends by ousting them from public life for the utterance.

SLOVAKS BURY 11 VICTIMS OF AIR RAID BY MAGYARS

Black Flags Drape Homes as Peasants Mourn.

IGLO, Slovakia, March 26.—(AP)—Black flags hung from the houses of this Slovak town today as the funeral procession for 11 victims of a raid by Hungarian warplanes moved down the wide, muddy main street to the cemetery.

In the hospital in nearby Locse were 27 seriously wounded townspeople who were receiving what medical care was available in the remoteness of the Tatra mountains.

Arrow locates Iglo where air raid victims were buried.

No stores have been open since 5 p. m. Friday night when five trimotored bombers appeared high over Iglo [Spisska Nova Ves], circled twice, and then dropped an estimated 120 bombs in the vicinity of the airport.

Peasants Are Victims.

The victims were mostly peasants who were gathering wood in the pine forests nearby.

Yesterday and today Iglo fearfully awaited the coming of the bombers again. The whirr of a ventilation fan in a restaurant or the drone of a distant automobile engine were enough to set the townspeople's nerves on edge.

Perplexed, they asked why Germany, which only last week signed a treaty guaranteeing Slovakia's territorial integrity, did not take quick vengeance on the Hungarians. There are no German troops in Iglo.

Property Damage Slight.

Iglo is a Germanic town. The great majority of its 18,000 inhabitants are Zipsers, descendants of Germans who settled the town 200 years ago.

Strangers are spies to them now and foreign newspaper men, no matter how well supplied with credentials, were forbidden to visit the scenes of the bombing.

The property damage in Iglo itself was slight. Only one bomb fell in the town, landing in a courtyard where it killed a 16 year old boy. Others fell in a field outside and two dropped near the railway station beyond Iglo.

TWO TROLLEY CONDUCTORS ROBBED.

Two street car robberies were reported to police last night. Conductor Charles H. Klix said an armed bandit took $31 from him at Halsted and 27th streets. Conductor Edward Arnold gave up $20 to another gunman at Milwaukee and Central avenues.

JAPANESE STORM NANCHANG, ONCE CHINA'S AIR BASE

Cross River; Attack from Trenches.

SHANGHAI, March 26.—(AP)—Japanese troops today laid siege to Nanchang, former vital Chinese air base in Kiangsi province, in their most vigorous assault since the fall of Hankow last Oct. 25.

The invaders battled through furious machine gun and rifle fire and stormed the walls of Nanchang after crossing from the east bank of the Kan river above the town. They used junks seized from Chinese villagers.

Arrow locates city besieged by Japanese.

Shock Troops Head Fight.

Shock troops bore the brunt of the fighting during the day and at sunset they were joined by reinforcements who began a systematic crossing of the river. The attack on the city was directed then from hastily dug trenches around its ancient walls. Japanese airmen who flew over the city late today said the defenders were in disorder and that a retreat was under way toward the south along the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway.

Nanchang, 360 miles southwest of Shanghai, is one of the few remaining great cities of China unconquered heretofore by the Japanese.

Motorized columns of the invaders led the advance on Nanchang southward from the Sui river. They captured the Nanchang-Kiukiang railway station on the west bank of the Kan river and immediately opened up a concentrated attack on Chinese defending the railway bridge across the stream.

The Chinese, braving the combined Japanese tank and infantry assault, managed to blow up one span of the bridge before retreating within Nanchang's immediate defenses.

Japanese commanders said airplanes blasted the way for two motorized columns which made a 60 mile advance to reach the vicinity of Nanchang from the north. Another column captured Fengsin, thirty miles west of Nanchang, they said, and continued on to take Tsingkiang, on the west bank of the Kan.

Severe fighting continued at Wuning, sixty miles northwest of Nanchang. The Japanese reported Chinese reënforcements arrived there and were holding the town in the face of incessant blasting by Japanese planes and artillery.

ITALY MUST GET SATISFACTION IS NAZIS' WARNING

Say Duce Clearly States Historic Claims.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 26.—"Mussolini has clearly defined Italy's historic claims respecting Tunisia, Djibouti, and the Suez canal while leaving the question of methods open," the official German news agency said today, adding that "an answer scarcely can be any longer avoided."

Premier Mussolini's description of Germany's expansion in central Europe as a "natural necessity" was received with deep satisfaction by official circles in Berlin which warmly reëchoed his assertion as to the solidity of the Rome-Berlin axis.

Il Duce's speech was hailed as "a warning to democracies and an answer to war agitators." As to his warning against any attempt to establish a league against the authoritarian states it was stressed that in such an event Germany would stand side by side with Italy in taking counter measures "throughout the world." This counter attack, it was said, would be led by the banner of justice."

Deny Designs on Poland.

BERLIN, March 26.—(AP)—A disclaimer of any Nazi intentions of aggression against uneasy Poland was voiced today by the semi-official mouthpiece of the German foreign office.

Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, which often reflects the views of the foreign office, at the same time gave Poland a veiled warning that she should not become too friendly with her eastern neighbor, soviet Russia.

In denying any hostile designs on Poland the publication took cognizance of reports abroad which arose in connection with the long standing question of Danzig and the Polish corridor [Pomorze] after the incorporation of Memel into expanding Germany.

Danzig Sought by Nazis.

These reports have been coupled with the prediction by trained German observers that Poland soon would have to yield to Germany the Free City of Danzig, the Polish corridor which separates East Prussia from the rest of the reich, Pommerellia, and the rich industrial areas of Polish Silesia—all of which were parts of Germany or Austria before the world war.

Adolf Hitler meanwhile went to Munich and it was expected he would continue on to his chalet at Berchtesgaden to rest. He was scheduled to go to Wilhelmshaven next Saturday for the launching of Germany's newest 35,000 ton warship.

The Fuehrer received a telegram from Premier Mussolini of Italy which was in much the same tone as Hitler's communication to Il Duce yesterday on the eve of the Fascist twentieth anniversary jubilee in Rome.

Responding to Hitler's pledge that the two axis partners stood "shoulder to shoulder" against efforts to restrict their natural aspirations, Il Duce asserted "a new conception of life joins our two revolutionary movements."

DANZIG LEADER WOUNDS KIN OF HITLER IN DUEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 26.—Albert Foerster, favorite nephew of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, lies gravely wounded in a hospital in the Free City of Danzig, it was learned today, as the result of a duel with Dr. Karl Arthur Greiser, Nazi president of the Danzig senate.

The duel, it was said, followed a quarrel between the two Nazi leaders—Foerster is chief of the Nazi party in Danzig—which ended in a face slapping.

Greiser was reported to have been saved from an attack by Foerster's followers upon the personal intervention of Hitler. The Fuehrer ruled that the duel was an affair of honor for which neither man should be punished.

JAN MASARYK BEGINS PARLEYS WITH DR. BENES

Jan Masaryk, son of the first president of dismembered Czecho-Slovakia, yesterday began four days of conferences with Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of the republic. Beyond Masaryk's comment that they discussed matters "pertaining to our country," they made no statement. Masaryk came here from the west coast Saturday and plans to fly to New York Wednesday. He will sail for England Saturday. Dr. Benes is a visiting lecturer at the University of Chicago.

RETURN OF WITOS SEEN AS EFFORT TO UNIFY POLAND

Ex-Premier Long an Exile; Gird Against Nazis.

WARSAW, March 26.—(AP)—Poland, delicately poised between expanding Germany and soviet Russia, moved today to meet a potential Nazi threat from the west by taking steps toward internal solidarity.

Apparently the government disregarded British efforts to include Poland in a European "halt Hitler" bloc and sought instead to strengthen its position by ironing out differences between its dissenting political parties.

One major step in this direction came with a report that the government had permitted the famed Peasant leader and ex-premier, Wincenty Witos, and his aid, a one time interior minister, Vladislas Kiernik, to return to their homeland after a nine year exile in former Czecho-Slovakia.

Asked Permit to Return.

The return of Witos and Kiernik was reported by the Cracow newspaper Illustrowany Kurjer which said they announced their desire for repatriation to the Polish legation in Prague several days ago.

It was reported reliably that Witos already was in Polish territory and his submission to the government's authority would be announced simultaneously with amnesty for him.

Kiernik was understood to have told friends in Prague that "this is not the time for emigration—this is the time for the return home of all active factors."

The anticipated repatriation of the two prominent political exiles was interpreted here as illustrating the internal consolidation now in process in Poland.

An End of Old Feud.

With Witos' return the long standing breach between the government and the Peasant party was expected ultimately to disappear.

Informed sources said, however, this should not be interpreted as heralding an all-party government in Poland.

Leading Polish political circles pointed out that the country's geographical position now was so precarious that a change in government might be interpreted by Poland's two powerful neighbors as a change in its traditional neutrality.

This impression, they said, was to be avoided. There were no indications of any cabinet changes and the position of Foreign Minister Josef Beck appeared to be in no way affected.

TEACHER ACCUSES BURGLAR.

Mrs. Joseph Muldoon, a public school teacher, signed a complaint at the Austin police station yesterday against Stanley Gerchus, 20, 1933 South Des Plaines street. Gerchus was seized Saturday night while burglarizing her apartment at 1257 North Damen avenue. Police said he admitted two other burglaries.

WARNS AGAINST WAR WITH RUSSIA; CALLS NATION 'INVINCIBLE'

MOSCOW, March 26.—(AP)—Pravda, communist party organ, declared soviet Russia "is invincible" today in a warning to "lunatics dreaming of an attack on our Socialist fatherland."

"There is no force in the world which could withstand the many millioned army of soviet patriots," the newspaper said. "In the Moscow Kremlin there lives a man [Joseph Stalin] who is our country incarnate.

"His powerful mind, his unbending will of steel, his boiling creative energy are entirely without reservation devoted to the people and the people respond with filial love to their best friend, teacher, and leader."

Jap Parliament Ends 74th Session; O.K.'s Huge Budget

TOKIO, March 26.—(AP)—The 74th diet, which opened Dec. 26, formally ended today after one of the quietest sessions in parliamentary history. It approved without debate a complicated budget totaling a record of 10,270,000,000 yen [$2,802,313,280], two-thirds of it for the army and navy.

RUMANIA BACKS DRIVE TO TIE UP WITH HUNGARIANS

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 26.—Transylvanian cultural circles have started a movement for relations with Hungary. Leaders of the movement conferred with Rumanian officials as well as the minister of culture and press bureau all of whom promised their support. The Hungarian minister to Rumania reports his government views the movement favorably. A group of Rumanian writers left for Budapest where they will begin negotiations relative to a reciprocal translation of literary works and showing of films. Moreover, Hungarian newspapers henceforth will be allowed to enter Rumania.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 26.—(AP)—A pastoral letter condemning national socialism and racial theories was read today in all Roman Catholic churches in eastern Belgium, including Eupen and Malmedy, the areas detached from Germany after the world war. Pro-Nazi worshipers demonstrated their disapproval when the letter was read, some getting up and walking out of the churches.

LOCKPORT POWER HALVED BY SLASH IN LAKE DIVERSION

Value of Output Expected to Drop $350,000.

Reduction in the diversion of water from Lake Michigan to the Illinois waterway has halved the power output at the Lockport dam plant, it was learned yesterday. The amount of flow governs the amount of power produced.

Last year the plant's production was approximately 140,000,000 kilowatt hours. On Jan. 1 diversion of lake water was cut from 5,000 cubic feet a second to 1,500 on order of the United States Supreme court. The plant now is producing at the rate of approximately 70,000,000 kilowatt hours annually, Lockport engineers said.

The value of last year's power output was about $700,000. This year, it was estimated, it will be in the neighborhood of $350,000. Even last year, however, the Lockport plant did not produce sufficient power for its own needs and those of its two principal customers, the park district and the city of Chicago.

Forced to Purchase Power.

"To supply its customers in 1938 the Sanitary district had to purchase about $700,000 worth of power to supplement that produced at Lockport," the engineers said. "This year it probably will spend $1,050,000." Engineers recalled that years ago the Sanitary district had 15,000 customers for its electricity, among them many suburban towns.

The sanitary district completed the erection of the Lockport power house in 1908. The plant had seven generating units of 4,000 horse power each. In 1936 two units were replaced with new ones which generated approximately 7,500 horse power each. Money supplied by the Public Works administration was used to replace the units.

"The new units increased our capacity 20 per cent and also increased our efficiency," engineers said. "To the present diversion of 1,500 cubic feet a second there is added about 1,700 feet of pumpage, so that the flow is about 3,200 cubic feet. The power plant is able to handle a far greater amount than this.

Floods Upset Flow.

"The 1,500 cubic feet allowed by the court is an average, and, because of seasonal floods, there must be periods of very little flow to maintain the average during a year. The amount generated now is 50 per cent of the plant's former average and not of former top capacity."

The state has applied to the federal government for permission to construct three power plants at other dam sites on the Illinois waterway. The state plan was announced Saturday by Charles P. Casey, assistant director of the department of public works.

He said there was no intention to put the state in competition with private power plants or to create a "Little TVA." The power produced would be used by the state and any surplus would be sold to private utilities.

NEWEST 'QUADS' ENTERTAIN THEIR OLDER 'RIVALS'

Galveston, Tex., March 26.—(AP)—The 9 year old Perricone quadruplet brothers of Beaumont and the 23 year old Keys quads of Oklahoma City today viewed the nation's youngest quadruplets — Jeraldine, Jeanette, Joyce, and Joan Badgett—of Galveston.

Carl Perricone noticed that one of the seven week old baby girls has a mole on her face, and Anthony commented that three of them have curly hair.

The identical Bailey twins, Lois and Louise, 18 years old, separated from birth until they entered Baylor university last fall, talked excitedly and in unison when they viewed the tiny babies through the glass window of their nursery.

The Keys sisters hastened to call the Badgetts "the cutest little things."

WEARY TRAVELER ADMITS ARSON TO KINDLY POLICE

East Chicago avenue police were holding Bennett Shaffer, 28 years old, yesterday while they awaited information concerning him from authorities in his home town, Seaside, Ore.

Shaffer, looking friendless and travelworn, was picked up at Division and Clark streets Saturday night by Detectives George Green and Joseph Haugh. They invited him to have dinner with them.

"Ever in any trouble?" the detectives asked after identifying themselves. Over the coffee and pie Shaffer told them he had set fire to a neighbor's house in Seaside and had run away to escape trial. He indicated he would rather return there than travel further.

YOUTHFUL HERO WHO SLEW WILD MAN VISITS CITY

"It doesn't feel so good to kill a man, but it was either my life or his."

Tipton Cox, 17 years old, whose bullet brought down Earl Durand, the Wyoming wild man, last Friday, expressed this philosophy yesterday. He paused in Chicago, between planes, en route to New York. Young Cox is a modest, unassuming boy. He was persuaded to show Winnifred Jennings, pretty stewardess of the United Airlines, the shell from which the bullet was fired. Tipton admitted that his biggest thrill would be his first view of New York. He lives on a ranch forty miles from Cody, Wyo., with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Cox.

CARRY COERCION OF G. O. P. VOTERS TO LEGISLATURE

Demand Secret Ballots as Constitutional Right.

Columbia, S. C., March 26.—[Special.]—Gov. Burnet R. Maybank and every member of the legislature, now in session here, has received a petition of protest against violation of the state constitution by Democratic leaders who deny the right of a secret ballot to voters of the state.

The protest is made by the Republican party of South Carolina. Demand is made that the legislature correct the evil by which the Democratic party polls virtually all the votes in a general election and the Republican party is denied its rightful share of the ballots because voters are afraid to vote other than for Democratic candidates.

Under the South Carolina system of general elections each political party is required to print its own ballots and distribute them to the polling places, which are controled by Democratic judges and clerks. Ballots are supposed to be stacked on tables in plain view and the voter selects the one he desires to mark.

G. O. P. Ballots Hidden.

The protest sent to the governor tells of many instances where the Republican ballots have been concealed and where voters received a Democratic ballot from the judges without being asked or having an opportunity to tell their preferences.

The Republican party is demanding that the state supply the ballots and that the names of all candidates be listed in the proper columns. Then the voter may enter the booth, vote for his choice, and deposit the ballot in the box without judges, clerks, and bystanders knowing how he voted.

Gov. Maybank and the legislators are reminded by the petitioners that in several opinions the Supreme court of South Carolina has upheld the right of voters to secrecy of their ballots.

Fear Loss of Representation.

The Republican party also insists that many voters are afraid to vote their true convictions because they fear reprisals by Democratic officeholders. This, the Republicans declare, is rank coercion.

Republicans also contend the state might be denied representation in congress because of the open violation of election laws and the state constitution by the Democrats. Since both houses of congress are judges of the election returns, and pass on qualifications of their members, the Republicans say a Republican majority in either house of congress might refuse seats to South Carolina senators or representatives on the ground that they were not elected legally because the voters did not enjoy their constitutional right of a secret ballot.

GUNBOAT SAVES CREW OF 32 FROM GROUNDED SHIP

BALBOA, Canal Zone, March 26.—[Special.]—The American freighter Point Vicente, carrying a crew of thirty-two, ran aground this morning on Bona Island light, 27 miles from here, but tonight was reported in no immediate danger. The crew took to lifeboats and was picked up by the the new United States gunboat, the Charleston.

The Charleston rushed to aid the stricken ship and radioed: "We are at Bona Island, picking up crew."

The Canal Zone authority tug Favorite is standing by. The Vicente, of 4,744 tons, is owned by Swayne Hoyt, Ltd.

35,000 LABORITES CHEER KELLY; GREEN WARNS OF BALLOT DANGER

Mayor Raps 'Plush Chair Performers' in Talk.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Organized labor last night staged the biggest meeting seen in connection with the 1939 Chicago mayoral election. It was a demonstration for Mayor Kelly.

The Chicago Stadium was filled to overflowing. Andy Frain, veteran boss of the ushers in the building, estimated there were 25,000 inside the doors and 10,000 outside listening to the loudspeakers on Madison and Wood streets.

The gathering was sponsored by the Flat Janitors' union. Some observers said it was the largest political meeting ever held in Chicago.

Audience Cheers Him Wildly.

The mayor wound up a busy day—one that included seven other platform appearance—with a twenty minute speech. The audience cheered him wildly.

He was preceded by two outstanding spokesmen for labor who complimented him on his attitude toward the working man. They are Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and William L. McFetridge, president of the janitors' union.

"Mayor Kelly's heart and his door," said Olander, "have always been open to all of us, great or small."

"During his six years in office," said McFetridge, "Mayor Kelly has fulfilled every obligation that any fair man could ask of a mayor."

Raps "Peddlers of Suspicion."

Mayor Kelly continued his silence toward Dwight H. Green and his charges but there were indirect references to some of the things said in the campaign.

"The jugglers of human emotions, the false prophets, are bent on confusion in this eleventh hour of Chicago's election," he asserted. "Labor wants no concessions from the ranks of the plush chair performers. Labor has no ears for the outsiders who come in from the east to create war scares and smoke screens of prejudice. Labor has eyes to see through the clouded windows in the house of the whispering campaigners—the peddlers of suspicion.

Human Needs Paramount.

"The security of the underprivileged against devastating want and hunger is more important than the salvaging of a political party label.

"These civic magicians who wave the wand of wild talk over the city, promising plenty of pensions, plenty of jobs, plenty of savings, plenty of everything, are the same miracle workers who are in possession of only one plenty—plenty of inexperience."

Mayor Kelly said he had fought and would continue to fight for the continuation of relief and WPA.

"We have mouths to feed," he said, "bodies to clothe, homes to keep together. And that can't be achieved by slashing the human budget."

G. O. P. Candidate Sees Plot to Displace Jarecki.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for mayor, charged yesterday that the Kelly-Nash organization plans to take the election machinery out of the hands of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki and turn it over to County Clerk Michael J. Flynn.

Green termed the alleged plan "the most brazen and ruthless political plot in the history of Chicago." He said his opponent, Mayor Kelly, will not attempt to carry it out until after the April 4 election because of fear that friends of Judge Jarecki and of good government would make their protest felt at the polls.

Threefold Purpose Charged.

The Republican candidate declared that such a plan has three purposes: First, to gain complete control of election machinery for the regular Democratic organization; second, to reward County Clerk Flynn for switching his support from State's Attorney Courtney in the primary; and third, to punish Judge Jarecki for opposing Kelly.

"The plot," said Green, "is to foist this new outrage upon the people in the lull after election. The Kelly-Nash machine already controls every judgeship in the Municipal court. It controls the city council and every branch of city government.

Jarecki Saved by Citizens.

"One thing it could not control was the election machinery. It tried to remove Judge Jarecki, but failed when an aroused citizenry rallied to his support and defeated the machine.

"Therefore, there is this new attempt to thwart the will of the voters. County Clerk Flynn was given glowing promises for shifting his allegiance. The machine promised to hand over to him the election machinery, with its thousands of election officials for patronage, and its tremendous power.

While Green said that he spoke on the basis of his own information, he pointed out that similar charges were made before the primary by Benjamin Adamowski, Courtney supporter who is Democratic floor leader in the Illinois house of representatives.

Bill Ready for Submission.

At that time Adamowski made a radio address in which he said the Kelly faction had a bill ready for introduction in the legislature to transfer election supervision to Flynn. This bill still is being held in readiness for introduction after April 4, Green said.

"There is only one way to stop this move to steal the ballot box," Green said. "That is to beat Ed Kelly on April 4. The last refuge of American freedom is the ballot box. When that is in the hands of the machine, the protest of citizens is futile."

Green spoke at ward meetings and over the radio yesterday. In the final full week of the campaign starting today Green is scheduled to make twenty-five talks.

WARANT FOR CITY AID IN 2 POISONED LIQUOR DEATHS

Keene, N. H., March 26.—(AP)—County Solicitor John R. Goodnow tonight issued a warant charging Albert Wojehick, 32 years old, a Brattleboro, Vt., town employé, with murder in the poison liquor deaths of a man and a woman.

Goodnow said Wojehick confessed placing poison in a bottle of whisky with the intention of killing his estranged wife, Mrs. Lois Smart Wojehick, 20 years old, because she refused his pleas for a reconciliation.

Instead, while Mr. and Mrs. Wojehick conversed outside the Smart home in nearby Ashuelot during a party last Friday night, her brother, Edgar Smart, 28 years old, and a neighbor, Mrs. Julia Wheaton, 25, sipped drinks poured from a poisoned bottle. Both died a short time later.

SEMANTICS' HEAD TO ADDRESS CLUB.

MERCHANTS PROTEST NAMING OF WIDOW AS N. Y. PORT APPRAISER

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—On the ground that she is without the technical qualifications for the office, the Merchants' association has sent letters to members of the senate finance committee opposing confirmation of Mrs. Florence Clarke Lynch for appraiser of the port of New York.

Mrs. Florence Lynch.

Mrs. Lynch is the widow of Thomas M. Lynch, close friend of President Roosevelt, who was appraiser for seven years until his death in February. Mrs. Lynch was nominated by the President to succeed her husband. The post carries a salary of $8,000 a year.

In an interview a few days ago Mrs. Lynch admitted she knew nothing whatever of the duties of the post.

BATTLE STARTED TO BLOCK STATE WAGE-HOUR BILL

Program Assailed as Curb on Business Recovery.

A battle to prevent passage of an Illinois wage and hour bill was being planned yesterday. The bill would extend provisions of the federal wage and hour law to hundreds of thousands of Illinois workers now exempt because they are not engaged in interstate commerce.

"We are not going to leave anything undone to halt this New Deal scheme which will further delay business recover," said James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

The measure, introduced last week in the house of representatives in Springfield, is before the house judiciary committee. It proposes minimum wages and maximum hours for workers as was done under the old NRA. It would give broad powers to Martin J. Durkin, state director of labor, to determine these wages and hours.

"There are many reasons why such a bill is objectionable, but in my opinion the following three are sufficient," said Donnelly.

"First, this type of legislation has been proposed in a majority of other states and defeated. If Illinois were to adopt such a program the employers and employés would be at a distinct disadvantage in competing with those in other states. There would be a loss of business and jobs in Illinois.

"Second, universal experience has indicated that political control of wages and hours is unsound and impractical. Workers eventually have gotten the worst of it in every instance. This has been true in Italy, Germany, and Russia, where government control of wages and hours has been in vogue for years.

"Third, the United States Supreme court has not yet passed on the validity of the federal act. It certainly would be unwise for this state to embark on the proposed course until this has been done."

City manager enabling legislation is expected to be the subject of a hot debate in the house tomorrow morning. It was passed to the floor of the house last week by the municipalities committee, which recommended, by a 16 to 14 vote, that it be defeated.

THINK OF THAT!

By CALEB

"IT'S a major indictment of our educational and industrial system," said an executive recently, "that they do a far better job of teaching techniques than they do of encouraging the development of ideas." Greater stress, he felt, should be placed on making idea-building attractive to people—by pointing out the specific instances of their value and social significance in human affairs. Such specific instances, he added, could be adduced by almost any informed person who has given the subject even casual consideration. For ideas, cultural, civic, social, mechanical, or philosophical, are actually the progenitors of all enduring progress.

An original thought given expression at once becomes as potentially forceful and irresistible as gravity. One day in 1885, for example, the thought occurred to a Field executive, Gordon Selfridge, of making quality merchandise of moderate price available in a basement store. Materially expressed, that idea's "value and social significance" have been shown in our basement store's constructive activities ever since. . . .

Unhappily, as Herbert Spencer pointed out long ago, the human mind will go to almost any lengths to avoid the labor of thinking. For true thought is labor, involving an art and a technique all its own. What usually passes for thought with most of us, is merely a conditioned form of reverie . . . given just enough direction to steer humanity through existence with a reasonable margin of security. Yet our thousands of daily occurring avoidable errors and accidents suggest that we do not even accomplish that. "I didn't think" is still, without doubt, the world's paramount alibi.

True thinking has a simple, three-step technique: (1) Becoming informed (gathering the usable raw materials for thought); (2) Selecting a definite thought objective (choice depending upon the occasion); (3) Concentrating on that objective one's own mental resources—so that the ideas developed are original. Such true-type thinking obviously demands both freedom from interruptions and a clear, composed mind. Ideas incubated in bed, at the shaving mirror, or on solitary walks, are far more productive, for that reason, than any results of routine thinking.

Today the business world in particular needs and seeks truly thinking men and women. For thinking that creates practicable and profitable changes, advances, re-combinations, or literally new services to human welfare, rewards are many and liberal. Civilization, after all, is merely the sum-total of Man's best ideas . . . and when those disappear, Man himself must disappear with them.

3 CHICAGO AREA RESIDENTS ARE PLANE VICTIMS

Daughter of Wilmette Teacher Killed.

Three of the eight persons who perished yesterday in the fiery crash of an airliner in Oklahoma were residents of Chicago and its suburbs. Two were men. Another woman victim formerly lived in Wilmette.

The men were Bernard G. Grossman, 37 years old, of 7 View street, Aurora, and his brother-in-law, Benjamin Coplon, 51, of 2136 East 75th street. They were flying to the bedside of Coplon's wife, Ida, who is seriously ill in a Houston, Tex., hospital.

Managed Chicago Book Store.

Grossman and his brother, Foster, operated Aurora's largest book and stationery store. Coplon managed a similar business in Chicago. Joint funeral services for Grossman and Coplon will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. in the chapel at 5206 Broadway.

Miss Joan Allan, 35 years old, another crash victim, lived in the Evanston hotel at 840 Forest avenue, Evanston. She was a registered nurse and had been employed by many prominent families on the north shore.

Miss Allan was flying to Fort Worth, Tex., on business, and planned to return today. Her only survivor is a brother, William, living in Edmonton, Alta., Miss Allan's home town.

Teacher's Daughter Killed.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burtner Hinckley, another victim, whose home was in San Benito, Tex., formerly lived in Wilmette. Her mother is Mrs. R. D. Burtner, a teacher in the Byron C. Stolp school in the suburb.

Mrs. Hinckley, who was 33 years old, was graduated from the New Trier High school. Several years ago she and her husband, Edward B. Hinckley, moved to Texas, where he was employed by a utility company.

One of those injured in the accident was a Chicagoan, Earl C. Erickson, 5838 North Virginia avenue. He is a representative of the Pepsodent company.

TYRONE POWER GETS SOME TIPS FROM BURGLAR

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—(AP)—Ralph R. Graham, 39 years old, confessed "fantom burglar of Bel-Air," was taken at lunch time today to visit Tyrone Power, one of his admitted victims. Graham gave the actor some advice.

"You'd better triple-lock your doors and get a burglar alarm they can hear all the way to the city hall," he admonished Power. "Right now a baby could get into your house."

Others at the conference were Annabella, the actor's reputed fiancée, and three detective lieutenants who took Graham on a rainy Sunday tour of more than a dozen Bel-Air, Beverly Hills, and west Los Angeles homes he designated as the scenes of his depredations.

He showed Power's mother how he entered through a patio door with nothing but a jackknife and a cigaret case. Diamonds valued at $4,000 and other jewelry were stolen from Power's home.

Brooklyn Dancer's Family Doubts Story She's Slain

New York, March 26.—[Special.]—The family of Jean de Koven, Brooklyn dancer, still believes she is alive, their attorney said today, despite the confession in France by Eugene G. Weidmann that she was one of six persons he killed and robbed. The attorney, Bernard Sandler, said he cabled the judge presiding over Weidmann's trial protesting against the failure to call members of the girl's family as witnesses. Attorney Sandler said the family doubted the identification of a body by French police as that of the girl.

IDENTIFY BANDIT SLAIN IN ATTEMPT TO ROB BUTCHER

The body of a bandit, who was shot and killed by his victim in an attempted robbery in the Morgan Park district Saturday night, was identified yesterday as that of Maurice Leahy, 24 years old, 5757 La Salle street. He was employed in an automobile spring factory and had not been in trouble before, according to a brother, John, who identified the body.

Leahy and two companions stopped Edward J. Lawall, 56 years old, as he was about to enter his home at 11148 Homan avenue. Leahy pointed a revolver at Lawall and ordered him to hand over his money. Instead Lawall fired at the bandit with a revolver he carried. Leahy pulled the trigger of his pistol twice, but the weapon missed fire. A bullet from Lawall's gun struck him between the eyes.

Leahy's two companions fled in an automobile. Lieut. Wallace Monroe of the Morgan Park station requested robbery victims to view the bandit's body in the morgue. Lawall owns a butcher shop at 3152 West 111th street.

Eugene Irwin, 17 years old, was arrested early yesterday in the rear of a lunchroom at 1215 West 79th street with a radio, a typewriter and a telephone coin box which had been stolen from the place. Thomas E. Tobin, owner, identified the articles.

FUTURISM REARS STARTLING HEAD AT FLOWER SHOW

False Teeth, Loaf of Bread Adorn Exhibits.

Surrealism and futuristic didoes have invaded flower growing and exhibiting. Nearly 20,000 visitors to the thirteenth annual Chicago flower show at Navy pier yesterday paused to stare at two surprise exhibits featuring flower arrangements which may be quite the thing two generations hence.

Top ranking exhibit in the futuristic field is called—why, no one seems to know—"So What?" It's what the members of the Lake Forest garden class think will be placed in wall flower niches of the future. The plant is a cactus of reddish hue. By its side is the upper half of a clothes dummy, with an enormous pair of scissors for a head.

What Big Teeth You Have!

Between the cactus and the dummy lies a set of false teeth—uppers and lowers. And the final element in this floral nightmare—as an indignant little woman termed it—is a drape of purple velvet which hangs to one side and is fastened to the box by a newspaper headline, placed upside down and reading "Hitler Explains."

The second surrealist wall box is technically an exhibit of a combination of carnations, purple anemones, and yellow ranunculus. They are mounted in attractive arrangement on a loaf of rye bread set rakishly on a clothing dummy's head. A length of yellow rope forms the lady's necklace.

Lemons are scattered in a rather careless fashion below all this. Above are clouds of carnations. From one of the clouds hang narrow white streamers apparently signifying rain. And it's all called "Grandmother, What Big Eyes You Have!"

Flower Styles of 2040.

Futuristic boxes display flowers growing in chemicals and cork instead of soil. For the purposes of the show the flowers are artificial, but the devisers of these boxes are hopeful that by 2040 or so real flowers will be grown in such media.

Undaunted by the eyebrows lifted at the surrealist exhibits, Mrs. Raymond Knotts, a member of the executive board of the Garden Club of Illinois, the show's sponsors, thinks the unorthodox arrangements will supplant the older displays in the future.

"They may look funny now," she said, "but they'll probably be commonplace a few generations from today or even earlier."

After hasty glances at the surrealist displays many spectators hurried to the sweet smelling gardens and bowers featuring roses, dahlias, carnations, and hundreds of other flowers.

At least half of yesterday's throng, too, were men.

The show will be continued through next Sunday.

GREEN DECLARES A WAR TO DEATH ON C. I. O. REBELS

Boston, Mass., March 26.—(AP)—Declaring labor peace can be realized only when the Congress of Industrial Organizations or the American Federation of Labor is dissolved, William Green, president of the A. F. of L., said today he "never will surrender or compromise" the standards of his organization.

"The only answer, as I see it," Green told a regional conference of the federation, "is for the rebel unions with their prodigal children to dissolve, come back home and join the family of labor."

Green said the A. F. of L. disavowed "any responsibility for the division created within its ranks," and added the responsibility "must rest squarely on those who led the rebel movement."

WOODSMAN JOE FINDS SPRING AN ETERNAL MIRACLE

Sees Romance in Each Bird, Leaf, and Tree.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Spring? It's here, of course, although you may have had doubts yesterday as you walked in the chilling rain and watched the thermometer fall.

If spring means golf and crocuses and spring fever to you, perhaps you'd like to know what it means to a man who spends the whole winter in the forest waiting for spring's return.

Joe Reichert is the man. Joe's a gray-haired, stocky fellow who serves as division superintendent of the 3,000 acre Palos section of the forest preserve district. He's the kind who defends the beauty of a crow's song, and marvels at a hawk's flight.

Woodland Chorus Wells Up.

"There are things in the woods," Joe said one day last week, "that people don't know anything about. That's because they don't look and they don't listen. To really know about spring you ought to get out about 5:30 in the morning, all alone. Here, sit on this stump and keep real still and I'll show you what I mean."

Around us swells an insistent chorus of frogs, like the click of a thousand tiny castanets. Topaz willows bend in the breeze at the water's edge.

"This is the time of romance in the woods," Joe whispers, moving the toe of his heavy boot gently and uncovering the green leaves of a wood violet cuddled close to a wild onion shoot. "Hear that coot barking? That's a mating call. Those muskrats over there come out every morning and play in the sun. The bullheads and minnows are spawning. Redwing blackbirds have been here a week, staking out their territories, and beginning to build their nests.

"And look!" he exclaimed, "did you see that sparrow hawk turn a somersault in the air? That's his way of showing off to the ladies.

Life Pulsates in Every Bough.

"You see that purple haze?" he asks, as we rise and move on. "And can you smell the air? That's spring. The haze comes from the sap rising in the stems. It almost comes out to meet you, the life that pulsates through those bushes and trees when they awaken.

"These last few days have been wonderful. Why, this morning I saw marsh marigolds and rose-colored hepatica in bud, as well as the spring beauties that will make the whole forest floor pink in three weeks.

"But when things begin to bloom," he sighed, "we'll just have two problems—forest fires and people. Every year we fight fires to keep them from burning the wild flowers, and then we fight people to keep them from tearing the flowers up by the roots. Yes, sir, those are two things none of us seems to be able to weed out."

Spring shoots that had their necks out yesterday wanted to pull them in again when cold showers sent the temperature in Chicago down 27 degrees in four hours. It was 67 at noon; by 4 p. m. the mercury was at 40. It dropped another two degrees at 5 o'clock, then started a slow rise. The forecast was for fair weather today.

PROSECUTORS, NOT JUDGES.

Senator Burke of Nebraska has hit upon something new in the science of government. He has been doing a lot of hard thinking about the Wagner act. Out of his study has come an idea for the reorganization of the labor board. The idea should be given a prompt trial. If it works—and we believe the chances are excellent that it will—the plan can be extended to many, if not all, the other administrative tribunals set up in recent years to regulate various types of business. The plan will do away with the most serious of the many abuses which have arisen in a rapidly expanding field of government activity.

Mr. Burke's innovation in administrative law, like so many other important innovations, is so simple that one wonders it wasn't hit upon years ago. In applying his plan to the labor board he suggests that congress, as at present, shall lay down the law governing the rights of labor to organize, bargain collectively, etc. At present the board, in administering the law, is at once grand jury, prosecutor, judge, trial jury, and executioner. It is a star chamber which, to a very considerable extent, makes up its own rules of evidence, procedure, and even of substantive law as it goes along; is highly partisan because of its political origins; and can wreck a business which the board or the party in power doesn't like. The victim, to be sure, has the right of appeal to the courts, but the right is narrowly limited.

Mr. Burke proposes the simple remedy of depriving the board of its judicial functions. The board's powers are limited to investigating and prosecuting. If the board receives a complaint it must investigate and, like a grand jury, it is armed with full power to summon witnesses and obtain documents. If it can achieve a conciliation, so much the better. If it can't and if it believes the law has been violated the board may itself prosecute the complaint; but then, upon request of the defendant, the trial must be transferred to the ordinary federal District court.

There the defendant will have all the rights which centuries of struggle for human liberty have shown to be necessary for protection against tyranny. The rights of the prosecution and the defense will be the familiar ones rather than the improvisations of inexperienced and prejudiced administrators with an ax to grind.

The idea, for all its simplicity, is a brilliant one. It recognizes the political forces which have led to the creation of one after another administrative tribunal. The frequently heard argument that the complexity of modern civilization necessitates the creation of new agencies of control is not ignored. The plan recognizes also that the attorney general and his far flung staf of district attorneys may not be the best instruments for the enforcement of new and unfamiliar laws regulating highly complex economic relationships. At the same time, however, the plan preserves the first essential of fairness, which is the impartiality and disinterestedness of the judge.

The plan, as was said before, should be given a prompt and thorough trial. If it works in the administration of the Wagner act it can easily be extended to the Federal Trade commission, the Securities and Exchange commission, and other agencies similarly constituted for the policing of our economy. The FTC would investigate and prosecute but not judge alleged violations of the anti-trust acts; the SEC would operate in the same way against those charged with misrepresentation of securities or market manipulation; the Communications commission would enforce the radio law in the courts; and so on.

The method would promote aggressive enforcement of particular laws, which seems to be what congress and perhaps the people want; but the citizen would be protected from persecution by prejudiced, politically dominated zealots possessed not only of the will but also the power to destroy. In short, the plan would retain whatever benefits may be expected from the administrative tribunals without destroying human liberty in the process.

PROTECTING UNBORN BABIES.

The Saltiel bill now pending in the legislature is a valuable contribution to the fight on syphilis. It requires physicians, on determining that a woman is to become a mother, to have a blood test made. Provision is also made for inclusion in the birth certificate of a notation as to whether such a test was made, and by what laboratory.

Physicians who have studied the bill predict that its passage will reduce hereditary syphilis in the state by at least one-half. On available statistics this would save at least 1,500 babies who are now born each year infected with the scourge and prevent a large number of stillbirths.

The procedure required by the bill is already followed by good obstetricians and maternity services of hospitals. The bill has been wisely drawn, without penalties for violation. After a few years of education on the subject penalties may become appropriate. There is no valid argument against its passage.

AMERICAN AIR DEFENSE.

I. THE ARMY.

Recent experience, both in combat abroad and in experiments at army schools at home, throws grave doubt on the more extravagant claims of aviation as an offensive weapon in land operations.

Air offensive weapons are the attack plane and the bomber. The attack plane is a modern cavalry raider, swooping down with machine guns and light bombs for "hedge hopping" attacks on marching troops and supply trains. The bomber is an extension of the artillery, dropping its explosives a thousand miles away instead of ten.

Ground strafing was developed as a highly successful tactic in the closing period of the world war. It not only inflicted considerable casualties but it destroyed morale and hampered communications by scattering marching troops and wrecking units in supply trains.

Today American infantry has been trained to stand and resist such attacks. Riflemen are taught to lead the attacking plane as a gunner leads a flying duck. The natural errors amid a company of infantry create the same dispersion pattern that the duck hunter gets from his shotgun. Against such tactics ground strafing of marching troops becomes too dangerous.

Hannibal knew, twenty-two centuries ago, that cavalry was useless against resolute infantry, but could inflict frightful losses if the footmen broke ranks and ran. The attack plane, a modernized cavalry weapon, can be repulsed by modernized infantry defense. Night movements, use of cover and improved machine guns and the semi-automatic rifle also severely reduce its effectiveness against supply trains.

But what of the bomber? There is, first of all, the anti-aircraft gun with its marvelously efficient directing mechanism. It may be unable to destroy a large percentage of the planes attacking the objectives it protects. But it can keep those planes so high in the sky that their bombing becomes largely a matter of guesswork. Destructive as their big bombs may be, the probability of their striking a vital military target is exceedingly small if they are forced to bomb from a height of three or four miles.

There remains the use of bombing as a moral weapon, designed to break the courage of a civilian population, and instead of destroying the physical means of production on which a modern army depends, to render them useless by creating panic in the working force that operates them.

In Spain, where some measure of anti-aircraft defense was available, air attacks with this objective proved futile. At Madrid, after the population had been trained in taking shelter, one five hour bombing resulted in just five civilian deaths. In China, where Japanese aviation has had virtually no opposition, it has damaged military objectives, but has been unable to cripple them on any large scale; it has killed thousands of civilians, but has failed to break civilian morale; in fact, it has strengthened it by breeding hatred.

As between industrial countries of anything like equal resources, decisive predominance in the air will not be possible. Each can injure the other. Neither can reduce the other to submission through the air alone.

In this country the advocates of an enormous air force have been unwilling to put on a demonstration of the efficacy of bombing. This is final, convincing proof that it does not exist. Bombing is a weapon, valuable but with limitations such as govern every other weapon. It is not a decisive force.

The ballyhoo about the dangers of aerial bombardment is political, not military, in origin. It was cooked up for two purposes by politicians. The first was to sell the peace of Munich to England. The second was to frighten the American public into a military alliance with Great Britain and France.

TOMORROW, II. THE NAVY.

Editorial of the Day

ANNUAL HEADACHE.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

Thousands of people throughout the state of Maryland are now holding their aching heads; not because of overindulgence the night before, but because of a time honored custom of the motor vehicles commission. These people have received their new automobile license tags and, unless they are big shots, the numbers on them are as new as the tags.

You, gentle motorist, are trying to forget 317-466, which has been with you since last March, and trying to remember 312-579, or some other patterniess combination of figures. You can only be thankful that the telephone company does not give you a new telephone number once a year, that the street number on your house is not changed once a year, that your social security number is not changed once a year, that the number on your safe deposit box is not changed once a year, and all the other miscellaneous numbers that single you out from the herd are not changed once a year.

This, as countless orators and writers remark daily, is a civilized country, a land of opportunity, a land distinguished for its modern conveniences and all the niceties of life. Why, then, does the motor vehicles commission put you annually to the petty annoyance and inconvenience of forgetting one license number and learning another? Why could you not receive the same number, year after year?

Will the motor vehicles commission reply that such a system is impractical and, therefore, impossible? Let us see. England is a quaint country with an old world atmosphere and, we like to think, deplorably lacking in modern conveniences. But this may be said for her: When a motorist in England gets a license, he keeps that license. He is relieved of the necessity and the responsibility of learning a new one every year. The metal license remains the same. The renewal is a disk of paper set in a celluloid frame which is attached to the windshield, much as our inspection stickers are now displayed. The color of this paper disk, not of the license plate, changes with the years. Experience shows that the system serves every practical need and the government is saved the cost of turning out thousands of new metal licenses every year.

If England can do it, why isn't it possible here? Two obstacles stand in the way. The first is that the motor vehicles commission would probably be shocked out of its senses by being called upon to do something that hasn't been done here before. The second is that the motor vehicles commission might hesitate to change its method when the only end to be gained is saving a taxpayer annoyance. Saving a taxpayer annoyance may be very well for foreigners, but such procedure on the part of the motor vehicles commission might subject it to the risk of being haled before the rejuvenated Dies committee on a charge of being un-American.

A TALE THAT LAWYERS LOVE.

A postcard contributor, whose name we cannot give because we chucked the communication into the waste basket on a peevish impulse, calls us "dumb" for not knowing that the story about the death sentence of Jose So-and-So Gonzalez [3-23-'39] belongs to Irvin Cobb. We are aware that it has been in his repertory for years, and so stated when we first referred to the tale [2-14-'39].

But this piece of American humor is probably older than Mr. Cobb. It has folklorish aspects. A contributor signing himself "Relativity" attributes its origin to a certain Judge Parker of Fort Smith, Ark., in the pioneer period, and mentions an answer from the condemned to this effect: "Your honor has much in common with Samson of scriptural fame. Both of you have killed with the jawbone of an ass."

W. J. McLaughlin, editor of "Skyscraper Management," testifies that John I. Hill of Houston, Tex., lawyer and notable after dinner speaker, is in great demand for his interpretation of the story. The latter has a version that runs for half an hour, and includes an elaborate answer by the condemned man. He claims that it comes from the records of the United States vs. Jose Jeremiah, Judge Parker presiding, in the western district of Arkansas, but does not locate the quotation or date the trial.

TO A FICKLE LASS.

(A paraphrase in Scotch dialect of Horace, Odes I., 5: "Quis multa gracilis te puer in rosa.")

Frae a' the swarm o' skinny jitterbugs,
Wi' slickened hair sae odoriferous,
Which yin amang the roses noo ye hugs?
The poor, blind cuss!

For him yer golden locks ye permanent.
Hoo soon he wull yer perfidy deplore!
In storms he'll find himsel wi' rudder bent,
Far frae the shore.

Soon wull he cringe beneath yer shrewish yell—
That gentle voice today like dove's sweet coo.
Wad he but ask, tae him I'd gladly tell
A thing or two.

Siren, at me ye yince did smile an' sing,
An' micht hae made o' me an auld bar fly.
But noo in Neptune's kirk high up I hing
M' kilt tae dry.

Mount Vernon in Lake Forest.

On route 42-A, on the western outskirts of Lake Forest, a short distance before the junction of route 42-A with the road leading to Libertyville, there is a perfect replica of Mount Vernon, George Washington's homestead. It is set back from the west side of the road, and in summer it can hardly be seen on account of dense foliage, but at present it is exposed clearly to passing motorists.

Items for Old House Collectors.

One of the oldest brick houses in Chicago is the old Clybourn family home, at Elston and Wabansia avenues. It has been remodeled into a store. . . . Another is the former Dickerson Inn, on Milwaukee avenue about a quarter of a mile north of Irving Park road. This was built a long time before the civil war. Old Timer.

The House That Storey Built.

Charles Turnell, who used to take his out of town relatives to see Storey's "Castle" as one of Chicago's architectural wonders in the late '80s and early '90s, had the happy thought of sending us an excellent picture of the place—the best that was ever taken, no doubt. Our boyish memories [3-11-'39] were confirmed; the place was amazing in its size and grandiose plan. It had four stories, and tall ones, above a high basement; a fifth story at corner turrets, and the tower ran up to the equivalent of a seventh.

I SAID TO MY HEART.

I said, "I have done with love." I told my heart,
"From this day on, you will no longer be a fool.
From this day on, you will play the spectator part.
From this day on, you will smile, and be calm and cool.
No moons, no roses, no tears, no vain regretting.
From this day on, you and I will start forgetting!"

And my heart assented, and put on a prim gray hood,
No roses under the brim, no disturbing perfume.
My heart was so quiet, so poised, so exceedingly good!
My heart was content to spin all day at the loom.
Then why, of a sudden, should I turn restless and fretting?
Isn't there peace at the last, when a heart's forgetting?

But the soft sweet air of a lingering melody
Drifted by, and my heart remembered and thrilled and stirred.
Oh, song! Can you never die? Must you always be Haunting my heart and me? I said never a word;
But my heart turned traitor; threw open the window, letting
The moonlight in. And how could I be forgetting!

On the First Day of Spring.

The pussywillow catkins have begun to appear, shy and cuddly as gray kittens. The buds on the maples are so big that their shadow at midday is almost shade. Here and there in the grass fresh green spots are showing, and I found a tiny dandelion plant in a warm and sheltered spot. The robins and the meadowlarks sing an ecstatic chorale at sunrise, and I heard a mourning dove's exquisite plaint. All day long the sky is pale turquoise, and the sunlight is gentle and gay. And thus enters this spring of 1939.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

AIR IS FREE, BUT DON'T EAT IT.

A FAMOUS physician is fond of reminding his colleagues that while in medical school he acquired a knowledge of disease; now he studies patients. While we have many instruments of precision, including the X-ray, there is no yardstick applied to the afflicted person which will make a diagnosis. As has been well said symptoms are merely the cries of organs in distress. The one who is devoted to the art of healing, therefore, must cultivate to a superlative degree the powers of observation—supplemented by logical deduction—all to the end that the sufferer's complaints shall be traced to their sources and the way thus pointed to relief.

Among digestive disorders, that which is described as "wind on the bowels"—flatulence—is the commonest. As a result, there may be an excessive amount of belching and bloating. Far from being a minor incident, it must be regarded as of importance and one's thoughts directed toward locating the origin.

Few of us realize the substantial volume of the atmosphere which is swallowed by the world's population daily. With every mouthful of food many will take in twice the bulk of air. This is especially true if one is animated—talking, laughing, and masticating at the same time. This dilemma can hardly be avoided if one is lying down or reclining and the feeding of those in bed is complicated by this factor. Sometimes within an hour after a meal—if one is raised to a sitting or an erect posture—a teacupful or more of air may be expelled.

There is always trouble when a sizable bubble is trapped in the esophagus [the pipe which leads from the mouth to the stomach] just at the point where this tube opens into the gastric organ. Now and then this obstruction occasions intense pain and it may be necessary to drink a glassful or more of water before it can be dislodged. Be that as it may, a confirmed gulper may unconsciously hinder digestion by ballooning out the stomach with wind. The cause is not fermentation—at least in the first portion of the alimentary tract. It is due to hurry, to the bolting of food, whereupon every morsel that is ingested is preceded and followed by an ounce or two of air. The remedy, of course, is more deliberate eating.

Many of us take in a considerable quantity between meals. We all swallow saliva habitually—scores of times every hour—and the material may be mixed with bubbles. If the secretion is particularly profuse the effect will be more noticeable. Such a circumstance may accompany any form of abdominal pain, whereupon gradually, but without the patient being aware of the fact, the stomach is being slowly but surely distended in consequence. Those who are bothered by some psychic disturbance, who are apprehensive—filled with fears and anxieties—are ready victims.

Next to the unexpected "burp," patients describe rumblings within the intestinal tract which are audible at a distance of several feet. Careful investigation shows that in most instances these noises proceed from the gastric pouch and not from the colon. The very act of breathing forces gas backward and forward, or through the semi-liquid contents, thus giving rise to sounds of distant thunder proceeding from within.

Now, the intestines themselves exchange gases with the blood readily. Oxygen and carbon dioxide may be surrendered and both may be reabsorbed. Nitrogen, on the other hand, is taken up by the circulation with great difficulty, athough it is discharged into the bowel with ease. In certain maladies absorption of gases is interfered with while excretion is intensified. This accounts for the explosive stools which may be experienced. Again, food which passes along the tract quickly does not permit the blood to pick up carbon dioxide, for example, and any condition leading to diarrhea is likely to be associated with flatus.

We may look upon the whole matter as due essentially to bad eating habits which are possible of correction. It is even probable that the chewing of food more thoroughly, swallowing slowly, and declining to sluice down our edibles with fluids will decrease many of these unpleasant symptoms.

MAY BE EARLY SMOKES.

C. N. writes: When I arise in the morning I feel like a million dollars, but after breakfast I begin to tremble and have a sense of nausea. Is there any reason for such a situation?

REPLY.

Tobacco early in the morning may be responsible. Drink a glass or two of water on arising and eat a substantial breakfast. Start the day early enough so that you can rest lying down for 30 minutes before leaving for work. If improvement does not come within a reasonable time, a careful physical checkup is in order.

SEND FOR LEAFLET.

C. H. writes: Can anything be done to correct bedwetting in a child?

REPLY.

Many cases are managed so that the habit is broken. Frequently a physical disturbance is the basis of the trouble. In other instances, correction of mental conflicts is indicated.

We have a leaflet on bedwetting, describing causes and suggestions for relief. Send a stamped addressed envelope for this outline.

IT'S NOT ADVISED.

T. S. writes: Is it dangerous for a woman with stomach ulcers to become pregnant?

REPLY.

Inasmuch as ulcer patients are usually on a restricted diet, pregnancy is not advised. In the later months there is real need for food, to which the lesion may object. On the other hand, I have known of a few ulcer victims who have improved during the interval.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY ARTHUR SCHOLES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONGKONG.—Nervousness in the world markets of the tea trade has been caused by fears that Japan will usurp China's position in the field. This would mark a significant new development in the history of the commercial production of tea.

P. E. Witham, who has been employed by the Chinese government for some time as a technical adviser for tea, has been in Hongkong recently and through him some interesting facts about the tea markets have come to light. Witham was attached to the Chinese foreign trade commission.

He recalled that years ago practically all tea drunk abroad went from China. Just 100 years ago India began commercial production of tea in Assam. Ceylon joined in and later the Dutch East Indies and the East African countries.

Japan grew tea hundreds of years ago, but it was only in recent years that it began to export it both from Japan and Formosa. Development of modern methods of tea planting had serious consequences for the China trade, which fell behind considerably. In 1937 China exported 89,634,000 pounds of tea, against 382,249,916 pounds from Ceylon, and 173,597,000 pounds from the Dutch East Indies.

Just before the outbreak of the present Chinese-Japanese war the Chinese government took steps to improve its tea industry to regain some of the lost ground. Japanese competition in particular had become acute, especially in the North African green tea market and the markets for cheaper black teas used in London for blending purposes. The war curtailed some of the plans to achieve this improvement, although work has been maintained in spite of great difficulties.

The majority of China's tea districts lie in inaccessible and mountainous regions where communications in the best of times are difficult. Unlike the industry in India, Ceylon, Java, and Africa, where tea is grown on plantations under close supervision of expert Europeans assisted by a trained labor force, China's tea is grown in small patches, each plot owned by a farmer who also grows other crops. The farmer sells his tea to various merchants and eventually the finished product reaches the foreign merchant firms for export abroad.

These circumstances naturally are subject to disruption in wartime and one of the chief problems has been that of transportation from the tea producing areas to Hongkong, which replaced Shanghai as the center of the China tea market. The 1938 black tea crop, however, was brought to Hongkong successfully before the closing of the Hankow-Canton railroad upon the fall of these two cities, and green teas also were centered in Hongkong.

Figures show that for the period Jan. 1 to Sept. 30, 1938, China tea exports were 65,620,000 pounds, as against 66,766,000 pounds for the same period in 1937. Japanese exports showed a decrease also over the same period from 34,852,000 pounds in 1937 to 21,643,000 pounds in 1938. There is every reason to believe that the final figures for the whole of 1938 will show a slight increase over 1937 for China.

It has been said that Japan intends in the future to exploit the China tea industry. At the moment, however, it has not gained possession of any of the tea districts. Although two small areas, one in southwest Hupeh province and the other in northwest Kiangsi, nominally are behind the Japanese lines, these areas are not in fact under Japanese control, being in the mountains.

Further, the expert tea makers no longer are in these districts and the Japanese have not the necessary technical knowledge to produce high grade teas. If they propose to produce tea along the same lines as in Japan, possibly using machinery, these teas will lose the essential Chinese characteristics for which they are sold abroad, Chinese say. Japan, however, may endeavor to induce Chinese tea merchants to carry on either under Japanese or puppet government protection.

Should Japan gain complete control, upon winning the war, it would mean that Japan herself would market the Chinese tea and the old foreign firms would be driven out of business. It seems more likely for the moment Japan will attempt to induce some of the Chinese tea merchants to carry on their trade under Japanese protection, at the same time making an intensive drive to push its own tea abroad at China's expense. One such effort in 1938 led to disaster, owing to the inferiority of the Japanese tea exported to London.

JOINT OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, March 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. My married sister and I purchased a lot together for which we have paid over $2,000 [her husband paid her share]. My sister died two months ago. Her husband said she left a will—which I have not seen—giving everything to him and on his death to their son. She had nothing but personal property, so don't see why it was necessary to make a will. My brother-in-law says will must be probated to give us clear title or it could not be sold.

2. Is this correct? Lawyer says it will cost $150.

3. Why couldn't will be ignored when she had nothing to leave?

4. Could deed be changed to our names instead of hers?

5. Why is it necessary to go through probate to pay lawyer's charges? Deed is now in my sister's and my name.

6. Can I draw up a will myself and sign before witnesses, or is it necessary to have a lawyer?

7. Would it be legal? M. B.

1. We assume that the title was taken in tenancy in common rather than joint tenancy, since otherwise you would, without question, have the entire title as surviving joint tenant.

2. Yes.

3. The presence of the will has no important bearing on the situation.

4. A subsequent purchaser would then have nothing to show there were not unpaid creditors entitled to payment out of the real estate.

5. See 4.

6. Ordinarily it is advisable to employ an attorney. You are in a better position than we are to judge whether you have exceptional capacity along this line.

7. Yes, if you do it right.

BLOSSOM TIME IN MICHIGAN.

Chicago, March 23.—'Twill soon be blossom time in Michigan—I can still see the last one. Let me tell you a few things about it so you won't miss it this year. The first sign of the wide open spaces was the clear call of a meadow lark.

Soon the lilac bushes came into view, and such big bushes—one almost hid the little cottage in the back. In its lavender dress I found myself looking for the old laces. Then we came to those glorious orchards—peach, pear, cherry and apple blossoms in a riot of sweetness and beauty.

Our next stop was Holland, the tulip city. Every street was bordered with blooming tulips—the colors were repeated; there would be a row of red ones, then pink, yellow, and deep purple. All of this led us to the loveliest city square I've ever seen—old elm and maple trees that looked like they had been there for centuries, and I marveled how those landscape gardeners could make flowers blossom in the shade.

We asked a police officer if we might eat our lunch there and he said, "Certainly, make yourself right at home." I don't know any one in Holland, but if they are as cordial as their policemen, they would be nice to know.

In a little while we were at the cabin—the cabin made of large white pine logs, with a big open fireplace. The air had grown chilly and we built a fire. Soon the ham and eggs with steaming hot coffee were ready. As we sat in front of the fire eating we noticed little amber beads that the heat had brought from the logs, sending a pine odor through the cabin. We grew sleepy.

WPA RULES.

Blue Island, Ill., March 24.—Finally there has been brought to the public's attention one of the many demoralizing rules connected with WPA and relief. Orchids to Judge McKinley.

Being 403'd [fired to you] after 5 days' absence, is presumably meant for cheater. There are some. But WPA "suspects everybody" [quoting the judge] as cheaters. Most of these men that have been 403'd have been absent due to the fact that they have been ill, found private employment, or an odd job that would tend to make ends meet.

When the odd job is finished or the private employment job folds up, as it usually does, one goes through all the red tape over again and waits for months for a reassignment for WPA. Does it pay? No. So one stays on WPA. Sort of keeps you in line, what?

At one time the majority of the rank and file of WPA were good men and true, but they are slowly degenerating into a lot of moronic imbeciles who bash each other over the head with their pick handles. Just a few more years of this and there won't be enough asylums to hold them. "A 403'er."

THE FIRST ANTITOXIN.

Chicago, March 16.—The death of the outstanding druggist, Eugene von Hermann, recalls an interesting experience. In 1894 five bottles of diphtheria antitoxin were shipped to America—four to New York, one to Chicago—addressed to Von Hermann, which he sold to me and which was split for two patients, with immediate recovery. We cabled for a large supply to be sent as soon as available. A full case arrived in due time and was distributed generously to druggists and doctors, saving many lives.

CHOIR PRACTICE?

Chicago, March 18.—I wish to take this opportunity to compliment the group of girls riding the Lake street "L" on Saturday morning, March 18, about 7:30 o'clock, on their splendid voices and the singing of "Ave Maria." Such good cheer as this the first thing in the morning is a better way in my opinion to start the day than with the talk of war.

W. J. L.

GREEN HORNET.

Chicago, March 21.—In your listing of radio broadcasts I observe one entitled: "The Green Hornet." Does this refer to the penetrating and perhaps painful questions being lodged against Mayor Kelly by his opponent, Dwight H. Green? It sounds logical to me.

L. J. K.

AN AMERICAN WHO WAS A GERMAN.

Hammond, Ind., March 21.—I often wonder whether or not the American public realizes that there are many Americans in this country who, like myself, happened to fight on the other side of the fence during the last world war. They are inhabitants of this great republic who have sworn loyalty to their new flag.

Their political leanings are opposed to such "weltanschauungen" as represented by the "Herr Kuhns" or "Comrade Browders." They find themselves constantly in conflict with the doings of their brethren in the old vaterland and they cannot be persuaded to praise all their achievements, which in many cases obviously smell decayed. In the case of the Jewish question, for instance, they feel disgrace because of the manner in which this delicate problem is being handled.

Yet they cannot help but be alarmed when they listen to many of the arguments in the air and print on this side of the water. They find that all the front seats are reserved by those who influence public opinion decidedly on one side. They are asking themselves what will happen when the crusade comes to a real head.

Judging from latest events it appears that the Fuehrer has set it in his head to live up to the last hundred pages of "Mein Kampf." If this is true we are forced to assume that the events which have taken our breath so far have occurred "in the dawn of an early morning." As the day progresses the sun will rise [not necessarily Hitler's sun—we are concerned it is not Stalin's] adding more heat to the arguments of this great republic's crusaders. With this in mind we shall see whether or not The Tribune's editorial writers will stick to their courage and analyze events with the same true perspective as was done so splendidly in recent months. In order not to be misunderstood [some one might ask me to take the boat] I also express my congratulations on such editorials which slammed "the Fuehrer."

A Reader.

WE SHOULDN'T BE SURPRISED.

Chicago, March 20.—The Tribune has already begun to alibi for that mad man Hitler [editorial Sunday, March 19] rather than give Roosevelt one word of credit for his foresight and statesmanship. When the world war breaks and Roosevelt is made dictator one of his first duties should be to muzzle such un-American and unpatriotic sheets as The Chicago Tribune.

Amos Slane.

CORRECT.

Riverside, Ill., March 17.—These "Famous Americans' Nicknames" crossword puzzles are exceedingly interesting. Aware that we are all liable to similar error at any time, I yet venture to call attention to a little slip in No. 16: Alexander Hamilton was not secretary of the treasury "during the revolutionary war" but during Washington's first administration.

Alfred F. Waldo.

HE DOESN'T LIKE HARVARD.

Chicago, March 25.—In your editorial on our alien minded diplomats, why did you not point out that most of them were educated at Harvard, the college of cynicism, socialism, and snobbery?

Arthur McTurk.

FIREMEN SAVE 30 IN LODGING HOUSE; ARREST JANITOR

Three Hurt in Collapse of Extension Ladder.

Firemen rescued more than thirty persons yesterday when flames swept a four story brick rooming house at 2827-29 Orchard street. Fourteen, trapped on upper floors, were carried down ladders. One was seriously injured when a 50 foot extension ladder collapsed.

Christ Miller, the janitor, was arrested on instruction of Earle Downes, assistant corporation counsel. Downes said he was dissatisfied with conflicting statements Miller made concerning the origin of the fire.

Chief James Feeney of the 13th battalion, one of the first to reach the fire, said he found the basement aflame and filled with smoke. The fire swept up an inside refuse chute at the rear and spread to the upper floors.

Found Overcome by Smoke.

Charles Farrell, 53 years old, was the man who was injured when the ladder collapsed. Lieut. Tom Casey and Fireman William Ehmann found him overcome by smoke on the fourth floor.

Lieut. Casey started to carry Farrell down the ladder. When he neared the ground Capt. John Scanlon ascended the ladder a few steps to guide Casey's feet. At the same time Lieut. John Scanlon [no relation to Capt. Scanlon], who was on another ladder alongside, reached over to hold Farrell's legs.

The ladder which Lieut. Casey was descending broke at that moment, and Casey, Farrell, and Capt. Scanlon fell to the ground. Farrell incurred head injuries and was taken to the North Chicago hospital. The two firemen suffered slight bruises.

Clings to Broken Ladder.

Fireman Ehmann clung to the swaying upper half of the broken ladder, which was held aloft by bracing poles attached to each side. Then he swung to the nearby ladder and made his way to the ground.

Others carried down ladders to safety were Mrs. Elizabeth Flannagan, 18 years old, and her daughter, Katherine, 13 months old; and Miss Ann Marshall, 20, who were on the fourth floor. Mrs. Sarah Johnson, 45, wrapped coats around her children, Donna Mae, 5, and Herman, 2, and led them from their fourth floor room.

George Gruenenwald, owner of the building, told Police Lieut. John O'Malley of the Sheffield avenue station that the fire may have started from an overheated incinerator. Gruenenwald also said he had given Miller a week's notice of discharge, because the janitor had been quarreling with tenants.

GEORGE TOWERS, CLERK TO POLICE SECRETARY, DIES

George Towers, principal clerk in the office of secretary of police, died of a heart attack yesterday in Miami Beach, Fla. He had been ill several weeks. Mr. Towers, who was 55 years old, lived at 7326 Coyle avenue. He had been a city employé twenty-seven years, and had spent all but two of those years in the police secretary's office. Mr. Towers is survived by his widow, the former Selina Brennan, a school teacher and former member of the police censor board. She was with him at his death. Funeral services will be held in Chicago, probably Thursday.

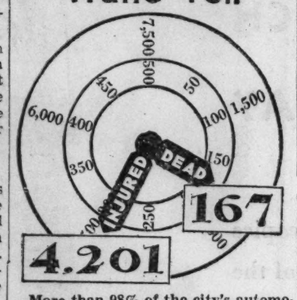
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Onward, Ever Onward

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1939 Trafic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Mrs. Minnie Kester, 69 years old, 7145 South Morgan street, last night was on her way to the Lutheran Church of the Atonement, 7001 Laflin street, but she never arrived. As she was walking across Ashland avenue at 70th street a hit and run driver, speeding north in the southbound lane, struck her. As Mrs. Kester lay on the pavement a southbound car ran over her. This driver also sped on, but probably was not aware of the accident. Mrs. Kester died instantly.

Morris Levitt, 42 years old, 1224 North Leavitt street, was seriously injured yesterday when his automobile overturned after colliding with another at Grand avenue and Sacramento boulevard.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 211 persons were killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 167 were killed in Chicago where 4,201 were injured in the same period.

THREE FAMILIES LEFT HOMELESS IN $2,500 BLAZE

Three families, totaling fifteen persons, lost their homes last night when fire swept the two story building at 3759 South Halsted street. That no one was harmed was due to the heroism of Miss Margaret Belcher, owner of a small tavern at 3749 South Halsted street.

Miss Belcher saw smoke coming from the structure. She ran over and roused George De Dest, who lived in the rear of his awning shop on the first floor. De Dest, his wife, and their seven small children, ranging in age from 2 to 12 years, escaped.

Then Miss Belcher ran to the second floor and aroused two other families—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bentley and a child, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ferguson and a child—who also were enabled to escape. The fire damage was estimated at $2,500.

BANDIT ROBS FOOD SHOP.

A bandit who wore a pair of bright yellow gloves held up Miss Mildred Borden last night in her mother's food shop at 6314 South California avenue and took $10.

Younger People too

Like It Here!

HIGHLY important to The Homestead, and highly valued by it, is its clientele of young people. Many of them came first when they were mere tots, and The Homestead and its distractions stand high in their memories of happy childhoods; others came to us first in their college days, or during a prep school vacation, and have been coming ever since.

Family groups are familiar units in the daily life of The Homestead—and therein lies much of the charm of its way of life. But nowadays the average age of The Homestead's guests is lower than for years.

Perhaps it's a sign of the times. Certainly we like it so.

CHICAGO-EUROPE AIRLINE BACKED BY U. S. OFFICIALS

Bid for Transocean Link to Be Pushed This Week.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 26.—[Special.]—Chicago's determination to become a world airport, by obtaining a direct air connection with the Canadian trans-Atlantic air base in Newfoundland, will receive every federal assistance, officials promised tonight.

Word of the city's bid for a link with the oceanic service, which is to be made officially during the week through representatives of air lines and civic groups, met with enthusiastic response in the capital.

Officials of the Civil Aeronautics authority and the state department pledged every coöperation. Illinois senators and representatives aligned themselves behind the program with promises to press for any necessary legislation and to facilitate departmental action.

Fits CAA Program.

"Under the law the CAA is directed to lend encouragement to the development of aviation and air lines in order to promote foreign and domestic commerce, the postal service, and the national defense," said Robert H. Hinckley, member of the air authority.

"The suggestion to bring a trans-Atlantic link to the door of the great Chicago market certainly comes under every section of the encouragement provision of the law. The CAA will be happy to look into the merits of the request."

The first step toward securing the air link, it was explained, would be the filing of a petition with the CAA for a certificate of convenience and necessity. The authority would hold hearings on the petition.

Canadian Plan Deadlocked.

The proposed link between Chicago and Gander Lake, in Newfoundland, faces not only the hurdle of the CAA, but also the hurdle of the Canadian government. Negotiations between Canadian officials and air transportation officials for flights over Canadian soil have been deadlocked for some time.

The Chicago proposal would necessitate pressing of the negotiations to a successful conclusion. The state department, it was said, is anxious to break the deadlock.

For the landing at Gander Lake no new negotiations are necessary, it was said at the state department. Newfoundland is directly under the British government, and a Chicago-Gander Lake air route could be established under the agreement negotiated with the British government for the trans-Atlantic service.

Europe a Possible Terminal.

It would be possible, under the agreement, for the line to be extended across the Atlantic to England, as no preference is given any company. The only conditon is that Imperial Airways be allowed to make a reciprocal number of flights.

It was said that the CAA probably will insist that the line have the most up to date aids to navigation, all along the route, both on American and Canadian soil, before it would grant a certificate. The perfection of aids is one of the objectives of the authority.

Illinois senators and representatives expect to encounter no congressional opposition to the proposed line, because in the last year Washington has become air minded, particularly trans-Atlantic air minded. Even Vice President John N. Garner, who likes to have both feet on the ground, was ready to take a flight in the Pan-American Atlantic clipper a few weeks ago when bad weather intervened.

Senators Back Plan.

"The proposal to link Chicago with trans-oceanic airways is a logical development in aviation," said Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.] "It is no more than fitting that the country's leading airline center should reach out into world airways.

"Such a line would be a great thing—not only for Chicago, but for the middle and far west. In fact, it would be the link that would encircle the world with airlines, when we consider the Pacific line is in operation and lines link Asia and Europe."

Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] was no less enthusiastic. "I will welcome the representatives of airlines and Chicago civic groups, who are advancing the proposal," he said. "I shall be at their service and will enjoy the opportunity to acquaint myself in detail with the proposal. I feel it is necessary, not only for Illinois and the midwest, but also for aviation."

Fits Into Allen Program.

Representative Leo E. Allen [R., Ill.] who is seeking federal funds for a lake front airport for Chicago, said the proposed line is another argument for such an airport.

"As I see it, the proposed line must come, sooner or later, in the history of aviation," he said. "Chicago and the midwest must have direct air contact with the world.

"I am convinced that the line would contribute to world peace. The closer the world is brought together, the greater is the possibility for peace."

Representative Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.] said he will do all he can in conjunction with his colleagues to promote the mission of the Chicago delegation, which is scheduled to visit the capital this week. In such a cause, he said, party lines should be forgotten.

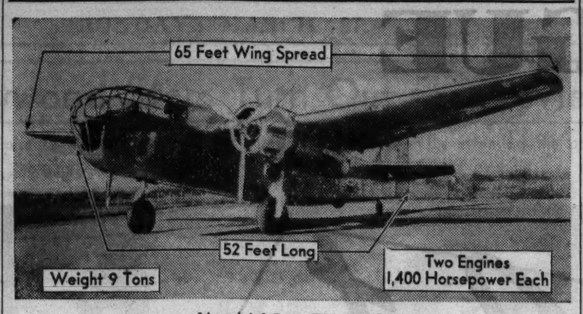
Army Tests Attack Bombers



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

This high speed, secretly developed fighting plane built by Boeing Aircraft corporation, is being tried out at Wright field, Dayton, O., in competition with entries of two other companies.

Three Competitors

Dayton, O., March 26.—[Special.]—High speed attack bombers produced by three manufacturers are being tested at Wright field in a competition for a contract to supply the army with 125 of these new type fighting ships by the middle of 1940.

Major specifications of the planes were dictated by requirements of the air corps and each manufacturer has added innovations which he believed might improve performance or utility beyond demands of the army. The manufacturers competing are Glenn L. Martin of Baltimore, North American Aviation corporation of Inglewood, Cal., and the Stearman division of the Boeing Aircraft corporation of Wichita Kas.

Because the planes are of the most advanced design the air corps forbids publicity about specifications or performance. All of the planes are said to have speeds around 360 miles an hour—so fast that only the newest and fastest pursuit ships could cope with them in aerial combat. The plane entered by Boeing, builder of many commercial airliners, weighs nine tons, has a wing spread of 65 feet, and is 52 feet long. All of the planes are powered with two 1,400 horse power twin row engines.

POLICE ARREST LAST OF "DIRTY FACED" BANDITS

With the arrest early today of John Mesce, 17 years old, Englewood police announced the roundup of the so-called "dirty faced" bandits. The trio had committed some fifty small robberies on the south side in recent weeks.

Mesce, who lives at 832 West 54th place, was seized near the Auburn Park Y. M. C. A. at 6545 South Union avenue, where he had been living under the name of John K. Lawler.

Two other alleged members of the gang were arrested Saturday. They are James McQuaid, 22, of 815 Garfield boulevard, and William Swartz, 19, of 815 East 39th street. According to Detectives John Spratt and William McNicholas, who made all three arrests, Mesce, McQuaid, and Swartz admitted numerous holdups.

WOMAN DIES OF BURNS.

Mrs. Ida Osek, 56 years old, 8625 Emerald avenue, who was burned Dec. 30 when her dress caught fire in her home while she was preparing breakfast on the kitchen stove, died last night in the Little Company of Mary hospital.

EIGHT IN SEDAN ARE KILLED BY CRASH WITH BUS

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—(AP)—Eight persons on an outing, most of them members of one family, were killed today when the sedan in which they were riding swerved in front of an interurban bus, was struck broadside, and demolished.

Six were killed in the crash and two others died in a hospital. Eleven of the thirteen passengers on the bus were treated for minor injuries.

The dead were: Isadore Minkus, 27 years old, WPA art director; his daughter, Mona Lee, 3; Miss Fagel Minkus, 35, sister of Isadore; Lina Reuben, 12; Meyer Minkus, 70, father of Isadore, and his wife Nellie, 68; Gorman Rapaport, 28, and Frank Garron, 21, driver of the auto, a University of Chicago student who was visiting his parents in Los Angeles.

BABY DIES WHILE DOCTORS DRESS DOG BITE WOUNDS

Olga Genc, 19 months old, died under an anesthetic in the Ravenswood hospital yesterday while physicians were dressing wounds caused by bites from a pet dog.

The baby was playing with the dog, a Dobermann Pincer in her home, 5211 North Newcastle avenue. Olga apparently jabbed a finger in the dog's eye and he bit her in the face.

Robert Genc, the baby's father, took her to the hospital. Dr. Walter J. Noonan, who was dressing the wounds, said the infant was under an anesthetic of gas and ether. Her pulse stopped suddenly, and artificial respiration failed. The specific cause of death is to be determined today by the coroner's office.

Boy Holds Gun by Muzzle; Shoots Self Through Hand

John Karalow, 16 years old, shot two rats with his .22 caliber rifle yesterday in the back yard of his home at 5800 South Mason avenue. He held the gun by the muzzle as he maneuvered for another shot. It was accidentally discharged, the bullet passing through the palm of his right hand.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

All a beauty editor needs on a delicious spring day to make her just a little more ga-ga than usual is an inspection of the Easter beauty offerings. They've never been so tempting.

Our personal nomination for the most charming package that's come out in years is the old fashioned pin cushion which one of the beauty houses has devised. This is a plump square of fussily ruffled satin with a "perfume pin" in each of its four corners. The pins—which can actually do duty on your hat—have heads of blown glass, filled with scent. The stoppers are in different colors and the pins themselves have that old fashioned look that is so decidedly new fashion right now. The pins contain two drams each of some of the loveliest perfumes on the market.

Another charming Easter gift, and a bargain, too, is a flower pot, cellophane wrapped, decked with flowers and ribbon that has a flock of elegant beauty preparations tucked away in its little insides.

Or, if you'd rather, there are fat, big cakes of exquisite June geranium soap tied in cyclamen net and topped with a boutonnière. In the center of the frou-frou of flowers and ribbon is another of those perfume pins we love so well.

Then there are cunning sailor hats, one large and one small. When the small one is lifted it reveals a dram of perfume, a lipstick in the new pink shade and a box of face powder. Under the large one—both are beautifully boxed—you'll find a gold compact and matching lipstick, plus perfume.

Plan Prenuptial Parties for Two April 11 Brides

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO pretty and popular north shore girls are to be married on Tuesday, April 11, each at a quiet home wedding. Miss Anne Winston, the Farwell Winstons' eldest daughter, and Carleton Ellis Jr. will be married at 4 o'clock at Fairlawn, the Lake Forest home of her grandmother, Mrs. Robert G. McGann. At the same hour Miss Eleanor Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris K. Wilson of Winnetka, will become the bride of Samuel A. Lynde II. at her parents' home in Sheridan road.

Only relatives and intimate friends will witness both ceremonies, but the Wilsons are inviting other friends to a reception at 5 o'clock. Miss Winston has decided against a lot of entertaining before her wedding and the only party will be one Mrs. Leslie Wheeler will give on Saturday night, April 8. One reason for not wanting many parties is that Mr. Ellis lives in Toledo and he and his brother, Bertram, who will be the best man, will not arrive in Lake Forest until the week-end before the wedding. Miss Winston will be attended by her sisters, Dudley and Lucia. The Rev. Herbert W. Prince will officiate.

Miss Wilson Faces Round of Parties.

Miss Wilson, on the contrary, is to be kept busy with entertaining before her wedding day. Saturday Miss Helen Shoemaker gave a luncheon; next Saturday Miss Jane Bulger will give a similar party. That night Miss Margery Shuman and Jack Odell, who will be best man for Mr. Lynde, will give a bowling party. On Sunday the Robert Grays and Miss Jane Cheney will give a cocktail party after which the Francis Dammanns will give a buffet supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wyatt Moore Jr. will give a dinner on April 8 preceding a dance the Charles G. Littles will give for their niece and Mr. Lynde. On Easter the William T. Bacons and Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Richards will give a luncheon at the Bacons' home in Winnetka. That evening Miss Sally Jane Crowder and Miss Janet Musselman will give the spinster dinner for Miss Wilson at Miss Crowder's house and Mr. Lynde will have his bachelor dinner at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Adams Lynde, in Winnetka.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will give the bridal dinner the night before the wedding in their home. Mrs. Roger Sherman will be her sister's matron of honor and Miss Olivia Little will be her cousin's maid of honor. The ushers will be Mr. Sherman, Eugene O'Brien, Wendell Clough of Toledo, and Francis Fabian.

Laura [illegible]eler to Wed Albert [illegible]d June 28.

Chicagoans will be interested in the approaching marriage of Miss Laura Wheeler, daughter of Mrs. Louis McLaughlin Blankenhorn and the late Harold Sayre Wheeler of Tacoma, Wash., and Albert Harris MacLeod, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Langley MacLeod, which will take place on June 28 in Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. MacLeod is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wadsworth Harris of Chicago. He will be graduated from Pomona college in June. Miss Wheeler was graduated from Mount Vernon seminary in Washington, D. C.

Miss Mary Ryerson, who made her debut last season, and Miss Anne Stuart, who will make hers next year, will be arriving at home soon, for Miss Stout's Traveling school is leaving Europe because of unsettled conditions. Miss Ryerson is the Joseph T. Ryersons' eldest daughter and Miss Stuart's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart.

The Elliott Donnelleys will return this morning from a fortnight's stay at Sun Valley and immediately Mrs. Donnelley will plunge into work to assist in making a success of the Parent Education institute to be held tomorrow at the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A and the Baggett auditorium of the Gorton school. The Parent-Teacher association and the Y. W. C. A. are sponsoring the institute, which will be directed by Mrs. Everlyn Willis Duvell, executive director of the

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., March 26.—Countess Dorothy di Frasso, sailing for Europe next week to sell her castle, is hopeful that she won't be caught in the war zone, as Italy believes that an armed outbreak is inevitable. . . . A string of memos from the Selznick front office has the "Gone with the Wind" set talking to itself and Director Victor Fleming may chuck it. . . . Why did young Doug Fairbanks make a hasty exit from the Goldwyn party Saturday night? . . . Eyeful making the spots with Band Leader George Olsen is Helen Rosseau. . . . The Jimmy McLarnins expect Sir Stork. Ditto the Herb Polesies [he produces the Bing Crosby flickers]. . . . Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins are engaged in a polite if grim battle of wits on the "Old Maid" set. The two of them jocky for camera angles every minute they're together in a scene. . . Curiously enough, Jimmy Cagney and George Raft haven't exploded any temperamental fireworks in their picture, though Vine street was offering 5 to 1 that they'd get in each other's makeup.

What secret mission is hurrying Jimmy Roosevelt to Europe? . . . Add Midnight Scenes: Eleanor Powell doing a show-stopping imitation of Jimmy Stewart at Slim Gordon's Château. Big event of the week-end was the preview of Goldwyn's "Wuthering Heights," directed sensitively by William Wyler, characterized by the brilliant performance of Laurence Olivier, and lifted to the status of an Event by the appearance of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Whether this grim and intense story of a tortured love will find box office favor remains to be seen, but at any event this is an artistic triumph in the best traditions of the legitimate stage. The picture is so magnificently keyed that it sheds new luster on the Goldwyn imprimatur and it is another feather in the directorial cap of Wyler. With Bette Davis' "Dark Victory" and "Wuthering Heights" the coast suddenly has gone in for stark drama, but personally I like my entertainment a little lighter in tone.

Good Morning!

"The way of the transgressor is hard"—as the Oklahoma Kid, himself a transgressor, proves to a handful of desperadoes who are far naughtier men than he is, Gunga Din.

This, as you have probably guessed, is another picture dealing with pioneer days and ways.

Staged in Will Rogers' home state, Oklahoma, the film sings of the time when, during the administration of Grover Cleveland, the Cherokee Strip was opened for homesteaders.

Thirty thousand folks, good and bad, but none of them indifferent, take part in an exciting land rush. Arrived at the spot which is to be site of Tulsa—they find themselves preceded by "sooners"—who have staked claims. [A "sooner" was a fellow who didn't wait to start with the crowd, but snuck away ahead of 'em. A law to protect pioneers from sech snakes came into being—but the "sooners" in this film were too smart for the law to get at.]

The town is built and they control the vice element—which grows into a monstrous and virtue devouring thing. . . . At its head is Whip McCord. Ned Kincaid leads the revolting movement.

And where does the Oklahoma Kid come in? Well, you see, he's Kincaid's prodigal son.

Agin law himself—the sort of law he'd come in contact with during his early years, he has made himself a feared—and fascinating—person in those parts. . . . But when a feller meets the ONE WOMAN, and when a feller's father's back's against the wall, and when there are a lot of reptiles about and no St. Patrick handy, why then a feller—like the Oklahoma Kid—just naturally has to do something about it.

And plenty this hombre DOES do. See picture for details.

There have been more spectacular westerns than "The Oklahoma Kid" and many that have packed a greater punch. But Mr. Cagney's new release is entertaining and Mr. Cagney in it is certainly the berries.

He performs with speed and sangfroid. His instructor for this rôle of outlawry was, I am told, none other than Al Jennings, the pint sized only surviving bandit of Oklahoma Territory days. Since his pardon from the penitentiary in 1904 Mr. Jennings has been pure as—Ferdinand the Bull. [Simile borrowed from my copy reader.]

Humphrey Bogart is a vile villain, as should be. Rosemary Lane is a peach as the heroine and Donald Crisp does a brave bit as her father, a judge. Other rôles are in capable hands.

Action and dialog are fast and intriguing.

See you tomorrow.

The Blind Side

SYNOPSIS.

Ross Craddock's father turned Craddock house into flats and installed his old maid cousins, Mary and Lucy Craddock, in a flat apiece, on either side of the one occupied by Ross. After Mary's death Lucy prepares to take a trip. Their cousin, Peter Renshaw, is staying in Mary's flat while he settles her estate. Ross orders Lucy to vacate her flat because she objects to his attentions to her foolish young niece, Mavis Grey. Lucy gives her cousin, Lee Fenton, permission to use her flat while she is away. Lee, who is in love with Peter, has just escaped an unpleasant experience with a married man. Rush, the porter, mutters belligerently to Lee against Ross. Mrs. Green, the charwoman, says she is ill and asks Lee for a drink of brandy. That evening Peter prevents Bobby Foster, Mavis' suitor, from making a scene in a night club where Mavis is with Ross. Peter is awakened in the night by a crash. He sees Mavis running from Ross' flat and Ross cut and bleeding. Mavis had thrown a decanter at him. Peter lets Mavis stay the rest of the night in his flat. Later he is again awakened and sees Mavis again coming from Ross' flat. She says she went to retrieve her purse. Lee awakens from a nightmare to find herself covered with blood. Her bloody footprints lead from Ross' door. Lee knows she walks in her sleep. In terror she washes away the blood stains and goes to tell Peter. Ross' valet arrives and finds Ross has been shot and killed. He summons the police. An old maid tenant tells how she saw Mavis coming from Ross' flat twice. Peter refuses to lie for Mavis. Miss Challoner, friend of Lucy's, brings word that Lucy did not go on her trip and that she arrived at her home at 3 in the morning. The charwoman adds Rush to the list of suspects.

INSTALMENT XXV.

A CIGARET CASE FOUND.

"Here, Inspector," said Rush, "you're upsetting her—that's what you're doing. And I won't have it! Come into the kitchen!"

Mrs. Rush began to tremble very much.

"Not a step!" she said. "Albert, you come right over here and let me get a hold of you!"

"All right, all right—nothing to put yourself about like that, my girl."

She leaned back against her pillows.

"Give him the case, Albert," she said.

"Have it your own way," said Rush.

He opened a drawer, took out a silver cigaret case, and handed it to the Inspector.

"I was going to give it back to him on the quiet," he said. "Found it laying by the side of the stairs Wednesday morning. Didn't think anything about it at first, no more than what he'd dropped it, and I put it away to give it back to him or to Miss Mavis."

The Inspector looked at the case—an ordinary engine turned affair with a medallion for initials. The initials were R. F. He pressed the catch and the case fell open on his palm. There were cigarets on one side, but on the other side there was a photograph of Miss Mavis Grey.

The Inspector pursed his lips as if he were going to whistle. Then he said:

"And who were you going to give it back to?"

The porter and his wife spoke together. Rush said, "Mr. Bobby Foster," and Mrs. Rush said, "Miss Mavis' young man."

. . . . . .

About twenty minutes later the Inspector hung up the receiver and faced Detective Abbott across the writing table.

"Inquest tomorrow at 2:30. We'll have 'em all there. Lintott's gone to check up on Mr. Foster. I want his finger prints. If they correspond with the lot we couldn't account for on the bannisters and on this door, then it looks pretty black against him."

"What did the Ducks and Drakes say?"

"O, he was round there on the Tuesday night, but he was so drunk they wouldn't let him in. Tried three times—asked for Miss Grey and said he'd got to see her. The porter says Mr. Renshaw put him into a taxi and sent him home. Well, suppose he got home and got drinking some more, and then came round here to have it out with Mr. Craddock—I don't mind telling you it begins to look like that to me. I've told Lintott to find out at his rooms when he came in, and whether any one heard him go out again——" He broke off because the sitting room door was pushed open and Peter Renshaw came in.

"Am I interrupting?" he said.

"As a matter of fact I wanted to see you, Mr. Renshaw. I am informed that you met Mr. Foster—Mr. Bobby Foster—as you came out of the Ducks and Drakes on Tuesday night, and that after some conversation you got him into a taxi and sent him home."

"All correct."

"Well, now, Mr. Renshaw, I have an account of that conversation from the porter at the Ducks and Drakes. He says Mr. Foster had been backwards and forwards asking for Miss Mavis Grey and wanting to know whether she was there with Mr. Craddock." The Inspector made a significant pause, and then asked, "Was Mr. Foster drunk?"

"It depends upon what you call drunk. He was walking and talking, but I didn't take much notice of what he said."

"Ah, but the porter did. He says Mr. Foster used threatening language—says he offered to knock Mr. Craddock's head off and kick it in the gutter—says he used the expression that shooting was too good for him. How's that, Mr. Renshaw?"

Peter groaned inwardly, and said "Bobby is a most awful ass, but he wouldn't hurt a fly."

"I take it that he did say those things then?"

"Look here," said Peter, "I don't know what put you on to Bobby Foster, but it's damned nonsense your suspecting him. He was annoyed because his girl had gone out with another fellow, he'd had—well—one or two over the eight, and he was shooting off his face. If you're really going to murder some one you don't go and have a shouting match about it on the steps of a popular night club with the porter hanging out both ears to listen—well, it's absurd, isn't it?"

Out of the depths of his experience the Inspector commented on this to the effect that a drunk would do anything—"And I take it, Mr. Renshaw, that you heard Mr. Foster say, 'Shooting's too good for him'—meaning Mr. Craddock."

Peter smiled affably.

"Rather assuming that, aren't you? Now, leaving this somewhat controversial subject, I really came to tell you that I have been talking to my cousin, Miss Lucy Craddock. She wants to make a statement." He hesitated for a moment—"well, she's a very conscientious person and she thinks she ought to. But she'd had a shock, and she's naturally timid, and—well, in fact she wants me to be there."

The Inspector considered the point.

"I don't see any objection." He considered still further. "I'm very anxious to get a statement from Miss Craddock, and I'm thinking of sending Abbott to take it down. If she's an elderly lady and timid, my coming in on her after a shock and all—well, it might, so to speak, dry her up. But there's something about the young ones, especially if they've got fair hair, that's wonderfully disarming with old ladies. Just bits of lads they think them, and they get the feeling they're setting them to rights. It loosens their tongues a lot, I've noticed."

When they were in a taxi Peter said:

"Look here, Fug, is it possible to have an unofficial conversation with you?"

Abbott shook his head.

"My superior officer has made a point of reminding me that a policeman on a murder case is a policeman all the time—he doesn't properly speaking, come off duty at all. What did you want to talk about?"

"What I really wanted to do was to talk to you about my cousin, Lucy Craddock. I want you to realize what sort of person she is. She's very easily frightened, and when she's frightened she dithers and goes to bits, but—and this is what I want you to get hold of—however frightened she was, or however much in bits, it wouldn't be possible to induce her to tell a lie. She might hold her tongue about something, but what she says will be the truth."

Abbott said, "I see." What he thought he saw was that Peter was very anxious for him to believe what Miss Lucy Craddock was going to say. He said, without any expression in his voice:

"You know what her statement is going to be?"

"No, I do not. She rang me up, and I'll tell you exactly what she said to me. First of all she said she was better, and then she said Mavis Grey had been to see her, and how dreadful it all was, and perhaps she ought to make a statement, but please would I come, too, because she was afraid she might get flustered and she would like to feel I was there."

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Ma Has Won Every Battle

Expert Grooms Brides for the Altar March

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Somehow we never get over being surprised at the beauty developments in this age of ours. Not only in the field itself, but in the influence on fields far remote. For example, we received an invitation introducing a practical, useful but "its own maker couldn't call it beautiful" household gadget, to which was appended a discourse on beauty. We are such a beauty-conscious nation that even the Greeks couldn't find a word for us.

Anyway, we're rambling, except that our tale of today is about a "bridal grooming room" in the east which is something new in grooming. In the bridal grooming room which, we hear, is done in the grand manner, brides-to-be are to be put through the paces of the wedding ceremony by an expert who formerly trained ladies for presentation at court.

Donu Edmond, said expert, volunteers that:

"The American girl's greatest faults, awkardness and lack of poise, show up alarmingly under romantic circumstances."

Believing that the wedding ceremony should be every woman's high moment of glamor, Mr. Edmond has worked out a nine-day prenuptial program to make the prospective bride a great and graceful lady, poised and beautiful.

During the nine day régime, she is coached in a room decorated like a church chapel and taught:

How to walk to the altar gracefully.

How to hold her finger to receive the wedding ring.

How to place her voice in speaking the marriage lines.

How to kiss beautifully in front of a crowd. [Private practice seemingly not qualifying.]

How to stand and shake hands while greeting guests at reception.

How to walk down the aile, to the gay music on her husband's arm.

And that's what we mean by the lengths to which beauty is driven today and the preparedness requirements preached from every beauty pulpit.

The Housewife

Some of the loveliest table decorations we've seen in a long time are delicate, beautifully colored flowers made of an imitation porcelain. The work is exquisitely done, the petals of the roses and the leaves being unusually perfect in detail.

You can get these flowers singly or in made-up centerpieces. Little clusters come in a white china container. Some sweet, tiny violets are in a white, boat-shaped dish that is charming. You'll be enchanted by the beauty of these artificial blooms, and they're something quite new.

Greek Freedom Opera Delights Its Listeners

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Thousands of Greek-Americans crowded into the Civic Opera house last night to celebrate their mother country's independence day by witnessing a performance of the historical opera, "Marco Bozzaris." The work of Paul Carreri, a mid-19th century Greek composer, "Marco Bozzaris" treats of the Greek war of liberation against the Turks—the very war which Byron's life and work brought so powerfully to the attention of the English speaking world.

Sumptuously mounted, with colorful settings and whole stagefuls of the Greek costumes of a century ago, "Marco Bozzaris" appealed strongly to last night's audience and drew innumerable volleys of rapid fire applause. A great deal of this was due, of course, to the patriotic cast of words and action, but even a person unable to understand Greek and capable of following but haltingly the progress of the story could take intense delight in the work's simple and flowing, or sometimes martial and exhilarating, melodies.

Presented under the general direction of Jean Farduli, last night's "Marco Bozzaris" enlisted as principals Mr. Farduli himself and such figures as Marion and Minas Booras and George Bakriges. Elizabeth Brown, no Greek, had acquired a fine Athenian accent for the occasion. Nicholas Varzos conducted. The chorus was drawn from the Greek Chorus of Chicago and from the Hellenic Orthodox Churches of the Annunciation and St. Demetrios. The dancers, for the most part, were Greek-Americans of this city.

The performance was a benefit for the two churches named above and was presented under the executive chairmanship of Arthur H. Peponis.

A feature of yesterday's Orchestra hall concert of the Civic Orchestra of Chicago was a first local performance of Bernard Wagenaar's third symphony. Wagenaar is a Dutch born New Yorker whose works have a far greater currency in the east than they have here.

As presented yesterday by Hans Lange and his alert young orchestra the new symphony proved to be an example of vigorous, original musical thought vigorously and originally expressed. The composer's rhythmic sense finds vent in meters which are odd sounding yet inevitable. His touch is generally light but never indecisive. A fine feeling for the expressive values of dynamics helps endow page after page with an interest of a very high order. The skill in instrumentation which the score reveals is nothing short of dazzling.

Alice Tully, soloist of the day, sang "Divinités du Styx" from Gluck's "Alceste" and "Dich Theure Halle" from Wagner's "Tannhäuser." For some curious reason her mobile and attractively textured voice did not succeed in dominating the orchestra properly in the climaxes of the former air, but in the latter—surely a more difficult test—it soared quite confidently to the peaks.

Lillian Poenisch, a member of the Civic orchestra's conducting class, directed a nobly planned, well inflected performance of Weber's "Euryanthe" overture. Walter Wollwage played the taxing obbligato in Debussy's rhapsody for clarinet and orchestra—an opus whose finest quality seems to be its brevity.

Solomon Rises to New Peak in Elgar Number

BY CECIL SMITH.

Izler Solomon, brilliant young conductor of the Illinois Symphony orchestra, is ruled by an exceptional quality of genius which never lets him rest calmly on his past laurels. His performance of Elgar's "Enigma" variations in the Great Northern theater yesterday afternoon was in many ways the finest achievement of his remarkable career.

Conducting the Elgar work from memory, Mr. Solomon maintained an intimacy of command over his orchestra such as few conductors achieve. For upwards of half an hour the Illinois Symphony orchestra became a virtuoso group, with no need to offer apologies to any older or more experienced orchestra. As the different variations required, the tone was now plastic and emotional, now effervescently light, now crackling and brilliant, now pontifically solemn.

Mr. Solomon is the kind of prima donna conductor we need. While he does not disdain sheer brilliance, his taste is guided by an inner musicianship which seems more nearly infallible with every month that passes. The eloquent E-flat major variation entitled "Nimrod"—the real emotional climax of the piece—moved with unbroken power from a transparent pianissimo into a climax of majestic breadth. This was a great performance, and one that has hardly been surpassed by any conductor in Chicago this year.

A felicitous performance of Haydn's Symphony No. 88, in G major, preceded the Elgar work. The brooding, slow movement, an impressive foreshadowing of the lyric vein of Beethoven's early works, rejoiced in phrases whose exquisite contours enhanced the natural flow of the music.

Stella Roberts, well known Chicago musician, played the first local performance of William Walton's viola concerto. The new composition is strongly influenced by Paul Hindemith, in its frank, healthy rhythmic energy, and its logically dissonant lines of counterpoint. Its English origin is hinted at by a few devices of harmony borrowed from the Elizabethan madrigal composers of the Renaissance. Miss Roberts' playing was assured and musicianly. It would benefit, however, from a more varied range of color.

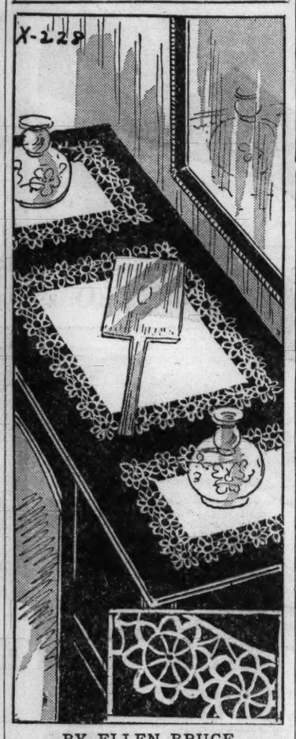
Crocheted Set for Dresser Has a Lacy Effect



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Spring has a way of getting under our skin when housecleaning and renovations are in order. With the change of color schemes, linens and other items usually are changed, too. Crocheted edgings on dresser sets create a lacy effect in the spirit of the first fresh days of spring. Fine white mercerized crochet cotton and white handkerchief linen are used to fashion this good looking dresser set.

For instructions for crocheting the dresser set, No. X-228, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Either Frock or Housecoat

SPRING FROCK OR HOUSECOAT.

For your many daytime activities during spring and early summer, or for your precious hours of leisure, this pattern is ideal. Its very simplicity recommends it as versatile. In a gay wash silk or cotton print, it's practical for home, office, or informal social occasions, and in cottons or silks it fashions a distinctive housecoat.

The neckline may be varied. If high and round, it takes nicely to a tailored collar edged with ruffling or plaiting. If V, it should have a soft rolled collar, as shown. A slide fastener may be used down the front, or buttons in bright colors and unusual shapes.

The important feature of this model is its pointed-up waistline, emphasizing the midriff and lengthening the skirtline.

Style No. 3391 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting for the dress. The housecoat requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Caviar, as most persons know, is a preparation of fish eggs, or roe. The eggs are heavily salted and pressed, and vary in size from pinhead to pea. They vary in color, too, from black through grays and to reddish yellow.

Once upon a time caviar came from the sturgeon alone. Caviar from the sturgeon, a large fish, still is preferred, but one may now buy caviar which has been prepared from numerous other fish, too.

The quality is likely to be quite variable. Good quality caviar is expensive, but a little caviar will go a long way. Its use in this country is restricted to the party occasion, for the most part, when one doesn't object to added food expense.

Caviar is valued for the stimulation it gives to the digestive juices. It is one of the best of appetizers, and usually is served with minced onion or onion juice and lemon. Probably it appears most frequently on the hors d'oeuvres tray, topping the canape.

Caviar is a rich source of vitamin D, a fact which is little known. The elusive and vital D, which is produced by the rays of the sun on the skin, and is found in rich store in oil from the livers of cod and halibut, makes caviar a health food, too.

Liking for caviar is a cultivated taste. The uninitiated will find this unique food more palatable each time he tries it.

Russian caviar dressing was meant for head lettuce or a simple vegetable salad. It is sharp-flavored and may be used for canapes and highly seasoned sandwiches.

Russian Caviar Dressing

1 cup mayonnaise or cooked dressing
1 tablespoon minced celery
1 tablespoon minced pimiento
1 tablespoon minced green pepper
3 drops tabasco sauce
1 tablespoon caviar
1 tablespoon grated onion
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Combine ingredients and chill.

There are recipes for several kinds of caviar canape in the booklet "Taste-Teasing Appetizers," which may be obtained for 5 cents in stamps by writing to me in care of THE TRIBUNE. The pamphlet also contains many other canape recipes, and tells how to prepare hors d'oeuvres and various kinds of edible and drinkable cocktails [the nonalcoholic kind].

Swank Taffetas Will Rustle in New Wardrobes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

New season sound effects are produced by stiff silk! You will rustle in daytime dresses of taffeta, the dresses made with basque long bodice tops. The linings of your smartest suit will be of striped or checked taffeta and taffeta will fashion your best blouse or shirtwaist. Petticoats by the dozens come in crisp, swishing taffeta.

Clothes are being made of old time elegant fabrics, bengalines, moirés, thick taffetas that will stand alone, materials that discreetly swish with every graceful movement. Double silks are new—that is, a beautifully cut and fitted daytime dress of checked taffeta contrasting the dark solid colored redingote designed to wear with it—both made of taffeta, both equally effective with other coats and dresses in thin summer wools.

Just about tops in dress parade glamor are the handsome costumes of jet black moiré. Veritable teatime clothes are unusually beautiful because of the moiré pattern and the fine quality of the fabric. Whiffs of white at the cuffs, hem facings, and at the throat complete their luxurious charm. The white accents are of fragilely lovely lace and fine lawn or of eyelet embroidery.

Fitted daytime coats are promised for warm weather wear. These will be of corded heavy silks, such as bengaline and faille, and crisp, stiff taffeta also will be used for daytime coats as well as decorative long evening wraps and capes. The newest fashion finds in town, spotlight stealers every one of them, are made of stiff silk. Everywhere you'll hear the typically feminine swish that has been missing for years.

Baby Needs Right Feeling of Mother

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

What you do and the way you feel about your baby from the very beginning of his life counts.

It is important for a mother to begin right with her baby. And that doesn't mean just doing right. It means FEELING right, too.

Even with her little baby, a mother can't act right unless she feels right. Yes, I know, to be sure, she may feed him properly and give him other physical care according to rule, but it really will be in essence a hollow thing, a mere going through of motions. There will be something lacking if she doesn't feel right.

We said recently that rearing the baby is not a job you do alone. He and you have to do it together. And to do it together you have to start right.

If so, what is then the first piece of rightness as far as your baby is concerned?

It is to want him and to love him.

To be willing to make a place for him in your LIFE, as well as in your house and your budget, is the next piece of rightness. There's more to that than meets the eye.

To be intelligent about your baby, and so to be wise in the management of him, is the third.

In these ways you will start a warm current flowing between you and your baby. He will sense that you love him AND enjoy him. The rest is then made infinitely easier.

And make no mistake. He WILL sense it. And why not? That sensing is no more magical than any other intangible thing felt between adult human beings. So sensing these feelings in you, those deep resistances in children which cause so much trouble will not arise. Surface and short-lived ones may, perhaps, but not deep and lasting resistances. You will have gained your baby's coöperation and established a good basic parent-child relationship.

Harpsichords and a Tap Dancer.

The house with the most musical equipment of any in Chicago probably is that of Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson on Hyde Park boulevard. There are three grand pianos, an electric organ, four harpsichords, and an clavichord in it. Two harpsichords will be on the stage at Thorne hall Tuesday evening when Manuel and Williamson give a concert. A delighted visitor to their home recently was Tap Dancer Paul Draper, who is passionately fond of eighteenth century music. When they began to play a fugue from Bach's The Art of the Fugue Paul turned back the rugs and began to tap to it. He improvised for half an hour. The next day, before he left Chicago, he bought several German lieder his father made years ago and sent them out to Manuel and Williamson in token of his appreciation.

"The actual bidding was:

North	East	South	West
2 clubs	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	5 no trump	Pass
7 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

"There is certainly nothing to be proud of in this bidding. North's opening two-bid doesn't seem so bad to me because of the tremendous distributional strength and only three probable losers. North felt that I, in the South position, stretched too far in bidding four no trump with only two-plus honor tricks. This is where my feeling of humility first comes in. I should have bid two diamonds. North's bid of five hearts certainly was correct. My next bid of five no trump, I think, probably was an error. I feel I should have bid six hearts. If I had North says he would have played the hand at six hearts which, with the favorable distribution, would have been a laydown and an extra trick would have been made against any lead except a spade. However, I consider that seven no trump was a pretty strong bid on North's part, especially since, with his distribution, he should have insisted on playing in a suit.

"Now as to the play. Things might have been bad, but West opened the six of diamonds, which I took with the ace. I then led my singleton club. I hardly thought a finesse against the queen was worth a prayer in view of East's double, but it was the only chance and, mirabile dictu, it worked. From then on it was easy. I ran off seven clubs and four hearts, ending in my own hand with the nine spot, and cashed the king of diamonds for the thirteenth trick, fulfilling the grand slam contract.

"If only virtue might always be as well rewarded as this botched-up bidding! I should like your comments.

"W. P., Boston."

There is no joy in criticizing a man who already is penitent. Since my correspondent has neatly placed his finger on his own errors my remarks are likely to be a shade redundant. I fully agree that North's opening two-bid was logical in that he had four and one-half honor tricks, counting plus values, a very strong seven card suit, and another four card suit so nearly solid. Actually an optimistic player would count North's hand for only two losers, but, of course, the safer estimate is that, in addition to the two singletons, North also has a loser in either clubs or hearts. South's four no trump response was much worse than even he realized. In the first place there is no occasion to jump to four no trump over an opening two-bid, no matter what the responder holds and, in this specific case, South's holding was not terrific and he had a singleton of his partner's suit that should have worried him a bit. Luckily enough, however, this four no trump response would not have been fatal if South had taken the proper action over North's five heart bid; that is, had merely bid six hearts.

But, on the other hand, South never would have had the thrill of finessing against the queen of clubs and risking a three million point penalty, more or less.

NEW YORK GOLDEN GLOVERS REVEAL PUNCH IN DRILLS

REACH PEAK FOR STADIUM BOUTS ON WEDNESDAY

Chicagoans Wind Up Sparring Today.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

New York's Golden Gloves fighters yesterday went through the first sparring session since arriving at their Medinah club headquarters. Each went three rounds. In the course of the workout they showed they'd shaken off the effects of their journey and would be in perfect physical condition on Wednesday night when they step into the Stadium ring to meet Chicago's boxers in the twelfth annual intercity Golden Gloves matches.

While the easterners were slugging away in two rings set up in the Medinah club gymnasium, the Chicago fighters were doing the same in the Illinois Athletic club. Head Coach Johnny Behr is satisfied now that all he'll have to do is keep his charges from getting too finely drawn before the big night.

Pastor Visits Invaders.

The New York squad had a guest coach yesterday—Bob Pastor, intercity Golden Gloves champion of 1934, who now is recognized by the National Boxing association as the No. 2 contender for Joe Louis' championship.

Pastor, who is to fight Maurice Strickland in the Stadium Friday, arrived yesterday noon from the east and went at once to the Medinah Athletic club to give the New York boys some pointers on how to beat their Chicago opponents.

After three rounds of boxing the New York coaches were satisfied with their team's condition. All boxers are hitting hard, ringing a bull's eye with every punch. Bill Speary, bantamweight champion, stepped through a fast round with Orlando Montiel, then two with Larry Aglialoro, in the most savagely fought contest of the drill. He jolted Montiel with a hard left. The heavier hitting Aglialoro gave Speary plenty of trouble, landing solid smashes to the body.

Easterners Are Confident.

Chicago's coaches shuffled the weight divisions for the sparring drill, speeding up the heavier boys and toughening the lighter ones by matching them against each other. Altus Allen, a light-heavyweight, was in the ring against Tony Novak, heavyweight champion. Shelton Bell, light heavyweight runnerup, boxed against Pete Hantz, middleweight runnerup.

Experience with Allen's sharp, straight punches that fall with lightning speed, was calculated to help Novak stay out of the way of the knockout blows for which Buddy Moore, New York's heavyweight champion, is famous.

The New Yorkers feel that this is the year when they'll reassert their supremacy after being the underdogs since their victory of 1934. The best they've been able to do is to get one tie in the last four meetings. In 1937 and 1938, however, the battle was very close. One more New York victory in either of those years would have wiped out the margin of Chicago's 9 to 7 superiority.

End Hard Drill Today.

The intercity matches will consist of sixteen bouts, two in each weight division. Champions will meet champions but the other places are left to the discretion of the coaches. In the course of the training period the boxers have given a pretty good indication of what they're likely to do in the Stadium ring, so the coaches are fairly well set on their choices. But they will not be called upon to make a final decision until the day of the bouts.

More workouts are on the schedule today in both camps. This will be the last day of sparring for Chicago's representatives. New York's boxers will wind up heavy work tomorrow, Coach Art Thomas said.

CHAMACO BEATS ALLEN HALL IN PROTESTED GAME

Jose Chamaco of New York defeated Allen Hall of Chicago last night in the second of two billiard games protested by the Chicagoan, 50 to 28 in 50 innings. The two games, originally played in Chamaco's home room in New York, were protested by Hall, who objected to the cloth used.

Today Hall meets Johnny Layton at the Pioneer Arcade and Chamaco moves to Bensinger, 131 South Wabash, for a pair of games with Jay Bozeman.

DAY OFF WINS BY THREE LENGTHS IN LOUISIANA DERBY

Beats Alms, Patrol Scout in $12,000 Stake.

New Orleans, La., March 26.—(AP)—Day Off, from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, won the 18th running of the Louisiana Derby today at the Fair Grounds under the fine riding of the veteran Eddie Arcaro.

The three year old stake, run before a crowd of 15,000, was worth $9,510 to the winner. Alms ran second and earned $2,000 for Mrs. Anthony Pelleteri. Patrol Scout, third, won $1,000 for Mrs. C. C. Winters, and Sir Marlboro took fourth place and $500 for Connie Smythe. Strung out behind were Sun Lover, Brodea, Bad Roll, Jubilee C. and Dick Naishapur.

Day Off, backed into favoritism, paid $4 to win, $2.80 to place, and $2.40 to show. Alms returned $3 and $2.40, and Patrol Scout's price was $2.60.

Wins by Three Lengths.

The Greentree colt ran the mile and an eighth in 1:52 3/5, considered excellent time, as the track, honed to lightning speed for two weeks, had been dulled by rain during the first two races.

Arcaro, who won the 1938 Kentucky Derby with Lawrin, brought in Day Off three lengths ahead of the filly Alms, racing as an entry with Sun Lover.

Forced to race wide around the first turn and again at the far turn, Day Off improved his position steadily while Sir Marlboro set the pace, pursued early by Brodea and later by Patrol Scout.

The Whitney colt, under 114 pounds, drew away from Sun Lover, ridden by Charlie Stevenson, and moved into third place at the head of the stretch. Arcaro shook out the chunky son of Royal Minstrel-Easy Day and he bounded away to win coasting.

Coronado Bows Tendon.

Today's Derby was disastrous for A. G. Tarn, the Canadian turfman whose Wise Fox won last year. Tarn had shipped the highly regarded Coronado here from Tropical Park for the race, and engaged Don Meade, the country's leading jocky, to ride him.

Coronado bowed a tendon in his last workout yesterday, and late last night Marvin Miller, stable foreman, decided the horse could not run.

The Louisiana Derby closed the 111 day season at the Fair Grounds, longest race meeting in the country.

Detroit Beats Montreal, 1-0, to Win Series; Boston Triumphs

Detroit, Mich., March 26.—(AP)—A goal by Marty Barry in overtime enabled Detroit to defeat the Montreal Canadiens, 1 to 0, before 11,312 tonight in the deciding contest of series C in the National Hocky league playoffs.

The victory qualified the Red Wings to meet the Maple Leafs at Toronto Tuesday in the opening game of a three game series that will determine the team to oppose the victor of the Boston Bruins-New York Rangers series in the Stanley cup finals.

Barry's goal came while the Canadiens were short handed as a result of a tripping penalty on Johnny Gagnon. Seven minutes and 44 seconds of overtime had elapsed when the veteran center took a relay from Herbie Lewis and Charlie Conacher directly in front of Claude Bourque, youthful Montreal goalie, and drove the puck into the corner.

OREGON BATTLES OHIO STATE FOR NATIONAL CROWN

Best in East and West Clash at N. U. Tonight.

For the Title

OHIO STATE.		OREGON.
Hull	F	Gale
Baker	F	Dick
Schick	C	Wintermute
Lynch	G	Anet
Boughner	G	Johansen

Referee—John Getchell, St. Thomas.
Umpire—Lyle Clarno, Bradley.

Ohio State, champion of the Western conference, and Oregon, champion of the Pacific Coast conference, will meet for the national collegiate basketball title in Patten gymnasium of Northwestern university tonight. The game will start at 8 p. m.

Possessors of brilliant scoring records, the two teams qualified for the finals of the first national collegiate tournament by winning their respective regional meets. Ohio State captured the Big Ten title in the closest race of recent years with a record of ten victories and two defeats. Oregon won the Pacific coast championship with fourteen victories and two defeats.

Among the spectators will be 400 college coaches, who are in Chicago for the annual convention of the National College Basketball association. A guest of honor will be Dr. James Naismith, who invented the game in 1891 at the Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A. college. As a special tribute to Dr. Naismith, two teams of Northwestern players will play a preliminary game under the original rules as drawn up by Dr. Naismith.

It Should Be a Battle.

On their season's record there is little to choose between the two championship finalists. Both possess brilliant shotmakers and both essentially are offensive minded as the regional playoffs attest.

Ohio State won the eastern sectionals by defeating Wake Forest, 64 to 55, and Villanova, 53 to 36. In rolling up 117 points the Buckeyes averaged 58 points per game.

Oregon won the western playoffs by disposing of Texas, 56 to 41, and Oklahoma, 55 to 37, to average 55½ points per game. Just before the playoffs Oregon clinched the Pacific Coast championship with a pair of victories over California by scores of 54 to 49 and 53 to 47. The Webfoots average 6 feet 2½ inches in height, against Ohio State's 6 feet.

The Boys Are Giants.

The west coast five has an imposing front line trio consisting of Laddie Gale and John Dick, forwards, both 6 feet 4 inches, and Urgel [Slim] Wintermute, center, who towers 6 feet 8 inches.

Gale, the team's leading scorer, rolled up 397 points in thirty-three games this year for an average of twelve. Wintermute scored 305, and Dick 216. Capt. Bob Anet and Wally Johansen, the guards, both are All-Pacific Coast conference players.

Ohio State's attack is built around Capt. Jim Hull, holder of the conference scoring title with 169 points. Hull hit his peak in the final game of the eastern playoffs against Villanova when he tallied 28 points. His running mate, Dick Baker, scored 25 points against Wake Forest in the other playoff game.

Schick Is the Tallest.

Tallest player on the Buckeye starting lineup is John Schick, center, who is 6 feet 3¾ inches. Both guards, Dick Boughner and Bob Lynch, are 6 feet tall. This pair comprises one of the best defensive combinations in the conference in addition to being excellent shots.

Both teams took light workouts yesterday afternoon in Patten gymnasium. The drills, confined mainly to limbering up exercises and shooting practice, ended preparations for both teams. Both held their first workouts on the Patten floor Saturday.

Final.

Father Ryan, Nashville, 36; Messmer, Milwaukee, 35 [overtime].

A 17 year old center is Indiana's newest basketball hero. Edmond Stanczak, who is 6 feet 2 inches tall, assumed the rôle by leading Central Catholic of Fort Wayne, Ind., to a 44 to 37 victory over Chicago's Leo High in the final round of the sixteenth annual National Catholic prep tournament in Loyola university gymnasium last night.

As a delegation of Fort Wayne's fans cheered his every move, Stanczak flipped in eight field goals and three free throws to take the George Cardinal Mundelein trophy, emblematic of national supremacy, to Indiana for the first time since 1933, when Cathedral High of Indianapolis defeated St. Rita of Chicago.

Eddie Keeps Shooting.

Stanczak scored one field goal in the first period, which ended with the score tied, 3 to 3. He added two more baskets and one free throw in the second quarter. He tossed in three more baskets and two free throws in the third period, and he made two additional perfect shots before he left the game late in the final quarter.

Norman Hawkey and Jim Farrell starred for Leo, runnerup in the south division of the Chicago Catholic league. Hawkey made three baskets and two free throws, while Farrell collected four field goals and two free throws.

St. Ignatius won third place in the second game on the evening's program by triumphing over St. George of Evanston, one of its rivals in the north section of the Chicago Catholic league, 27 to 24. St. George held a 14 to 13 lead at the half.

Two Hoosiers Carry Load.

Until the last thirty seconds of the first half, two players, Stanczak and Boedeker, had scored all of Fort Wayne's points to give the Hoosiers their 13 to 12 lead at the intermission. In those remaining seconds Maxwell lifted the ball into the basket and became Fort Wayne's third scorer for the first half.

Close guarding marked the first quarter. After the first three minutes, Mullen scored a field goal, but Stanczak followed with a short shot to tie the score. Keehan was fouled by Maxwell and made good on a free throw attempt. A few minutes later Boedeker was fouled by Mullen and the score at the end of the quarter was 3 to 3.

Leo Forges Ahead.

Hawkey, a substitute for Murphy, opened the second quarter with a field goal and then followed with another shot to give Leo a 7 to 5 lead. Stanczak was fouled by Farrell, but missed the free toss. However, the tall center snatched the ball as it bounced back and flipped it into the basket.

Stanczak got another free throw attempt, but Leo went to the front again, 9 to 6, when Keehan scored. Boedeker scored a basket and Hawkey made a free throw. Then Stanczak tied the score, 10 to 10, with a short shot. Patrick put Leo ahead again with a field goal, but a minute later Boedeker scored a free throw, and then Maxwell contributed a basket to send the Hoosiers into the lead, 13 to 12, as the half ended.

Stanczak Carries On.

Stanczak again was Fort Wayne's leading scorer in the third quarter which ended with the Hoosiers leading, 26 to 21. In this quarter Stanczak flipped in three baskets and two free throws.

In the first five minutes of the quarter, Farrell scored a field goal and Keehan and Patrick made good on free throws for Leo, but three field goals by Stanczak, one by Bitler, and a free throw by Boedeker gave the Hoosiers a 23 to 18 advantage.

Patrick scored a free throw and a basket for Leo's last points in the remaining minutes, while Stanczak added another free throw and Boedeker another field goal.

The Lead Expands.

The Hoosiers increased their lead in the first two minutes of the final quarter, scoring three field goals, two more by Stanczak and one by Klotz. Farrell made a field goal and Keehan a free throw for Leo and Fort Wayne led, 32 to 24.

Boedeker followed with a free throw for Fort Wayne, but Hawkey and Farrell made baskets for Leo. Bitler scored a basket and Klotz made two

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

The Harmons, lone Chicago representative in the national professional basketball tournament, ran afoul a tricky, fast colored quintet last night and were eliminated by the Harlem Globe Trotters, 31 to 25, in the Madison street armory.

This was the second victory of the day for the Globe Trotters, who, during the afternoon, defeated Fort Wayne, 41 to 33, without having to extend themselves.

Semi-finals Tonight.

The Trotters, suspecting they would get past Fort Wayne, conserved their energy for the night game. They needed it. The Harmons were strengthened by Mike Novak, 6 foot 9 inch center from Loyola university, but lanky Mike could not bat away enough shots to discourage the accurate colored boys.

A crowd of 8,000 saw yesterday's two triple-headers. The tournament will move to the Coliseum for tonight's semi-final round and tomorrow night's finals. Tonight the New York Celtics will meet the Sheboygan Redskins, and the Globe Trotters will be pitted against the New York Renaissance, the other colored team in the tournament. The winner of Celtics-Sheboygan game will be paired with the Oshkosh All-Stars.

Yankees Win, Lose.

The Renaissance defeated the New York Yankees last night, 30 to 21, after the latter had eliminated the House of David, 40 to 32. Sheboygan advanced at the expense of the Illinois Grads, led by Pick Dehner, 47 to 27.

In the other game Oshkosh won from the Clarksburg, W. Va., Oilers, 40 to 33. The Oilers featured Joe Stydahar, Chicago Bears tackle, and Leonard [Fr.ets] Barnum, New York Giants half back. Scores:

Indiana Will Offer 14 Days' Fishing for $1

BY BOB BECKER.

New fishing licenses for nonresident fishermen who plan on going to Indiana this spring will be on sale April 1, according to an announcement by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the department of conservation. Indiana has a special nonresident "vacation" fishing license which costs $1 and is good for fourteen days of fishing in that state. This fourteen day license replaces a similar one issued for the last two years at the same fee but good for only ten days. Another innovation in Indiana fishing laws this season is a woman's angling license [resident] costing 50 cents.

Special Fishing Licenses.

Indiana has found that it pays to have a special nonresident vacation license. More than 10,000 of these have been issued during the last fiscal year, many being sold to Illinois fishermen. Indiana, with conservation clubs coöperating, planted more than 25,000,000 game fish last year to further improve lake and stream fishing.

Indiana fishermen will be swinging their rods during April when the warm weather encourages angling, for the laws permit fishing until the end of that month. Then the closed seasons stop all fishing until the middle of June.

Fly Rods Popular.

Illinois fishermen, especially those who use fly rods, are busy at this season of the year. The boys go to the northern lake region to toss their flies at the crappies and the bluegills, which have a habit of moving out of the big lakes to enter canals, connecting creeks, and channels where fishermen can cast for them. Hundreds of fly fishermen already have braved the capricious March weather to have a little fun with the panfish. Included in the groups are many beginners to take these early spring days to do a little practicing with their fly rod outfits.

Another early season fishing place, Reelfoot lake, Tenn., which is overnight by train from Chicago, reports not much doing yet with the black bass. The guides say that a spell of warm weather is needed to perk up both the black bass and the crappies to make good April fishing. When the weather is right a fisherman should be able to get a bass at Reelfoot during April either with a fly or bait casting rod lures.

LORD BYRON WINS SONS OF PERICLES BASKET TOURNEY

Lord Byron defeated Ypsilanti, 33 to 29, for the Chicago district championship of the Sons of Pericles basketball tournament at St. Rita High school last night. Athenacoras of Fond du Lac won the consolation final from Pindaros, 37 to 35.

Lord Byron, Ypsilanti, and Athenacoras qualified for the national tournament, to be held at Loyola university, April 1 and 2. Other results:

FIRST ROUND—Ypsilanti, Chicago, 20; Garfield Park, 17. Athenacoras, Fond du Lac, Wis., 53; Logan Square, 16. Pindaros, Milwaukee, 27; Ypsilanti, Mich., 13. Lord Byron, 29; South Bend, Ind., 12.

SEMI-FINALS — Ypsilanti, Chicago, 33; Athenacoras, Fond du Lac, 23. Lord Byron, 31; Pindaros, 7.

Feller showed some of his wildness by walking the first two men in the first inning, and one of them later scored on a double steal, but the only hit he yielded in five innings was a single by Hubbell himself in the third.

Hubbell pitched three hitless and runless innings, retiring when a persistent drizzle became a deluge during the Giants' turn at bat in the third. The game was delayed nearly an hour. Score:

PROPOSE RULE TO CURB FOULS IN BASKETBALL

The rules committee of the National Basketball Coaches' association yesterday proposed four changes, including one to curb intentional fouling.

The association deferred final action on the recommendations until today's session of its annual convention in the Sherman hotel.

The committee report, submitted by Chairman Clair Bee, Long Island university coach, suggested one alteration in the playing code to curtail deliberate fouling in the waning minutes of a game by which the team behind may gain possession of the ball after a free throw.

Expects Change to Be Approved.

The report suggested an intentional foul be penalized by one free throw, time to be out during the play, and the ball awarded the offended team in its front court following the shot, whether successful or not.

Bee said he thought this recommendation probably would be accepted as the only new rule. The consensus at the association's convention was to leave the rules virtually intact for another year.

They'll Decide Today.

The committee, however, also suggested the three-second rule apply only to a player in possession of the ball in the free throw circle, division of the college game into four quarters as in high school, instead of two twenty minute halves as at present, and the awarding of a goal to the offensive team if a defending player touches the ball in its downward flight before the ball hits the backboard or basket rim.

The coaches will take action on this and several other committee reports today at their final session.

White Sox Welcome Shower; Cubs Are Happy to Rest, Too

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 26.—The little vacation Manager James Dykes has been seeking for his White Sox, who he thinks are conditioned well enough for this time of the year, was granted today by the weather man. Rain descended in fairly large quantities, so the Sox, instead of having their scheduled whack at the Cubs in the fourth game of the spring series, got no more exercise than a bus ride to Los Angeles and back to their training base.

One day of idleness, however, didn't satisfy the manager, who, while anxious to inflict as many beatings on the Cubs and others during the remainder of the spring barnstorming as possible, doesn't want to have his boys turn stale by the time the season opens on April 18. Hence he has issued an edict that there will be no drill tomorrow, a day left open in the original schedule for polishing up defects developed in the exhibitions.

Lyons, Knott to Pitch.

Spring dueling with the Cubs will be resumed Tuesday afternoon in Los Angeles and the battle will bring into action the same pair of Sox pitchers ticketed for today's affair One of these will be Granddaddy Ted Lyons, whose only previous appearance this spring was his three inning act against the Pirates. He did well enough on that occasion to indicate that there's still some cunning in his 38 year old arm and that he'll be able to lend some help to the struggle to escape the second division. Lyons' helper will be Jack Knott, who admits he has made summer plans to double the half dozen victories he registered last season.

When training started several weeks ago, Dykes made no effort to conceal the fact that his regular outfield for the start of the championship race would be Gerald Walker, Mike Kreevich, and Henry Steinbacher, reading from left to right. What he has seen in the exhibition has caused the boss to hedge slightly. He isn't so certain that Walker will hit well enough to keep Rip Radcliff on the bench or that Steinbacher will hit sufficiently to earn an appreciable edge over either Walker or Larry Rosenthal. However, nobody has much of a chance to challenge Kreevich as center fielder.

The Infield Is Sound.

Although willing to experiment indefinitly on his outfield, Dykes is pretty well satisfied with the infield arrangements, even though it doesn't include Jack Hayes, the regular second baseman, who is showing little progress toward recovery from his knee operation. Hayes hasn't been missed so far, because of the ease with which Eric [Boob] McNair, taken in trade from Boston for Boze Berger, has fitted into the position. McNair's fielding has disproved the argument that he is a natural shortstop and not a second baseman. He also has been hitting for distance, and the manager says his power isn't one of those spring freaks. The manager should know, having been on the A's with McNair.

Another bright spot in the infield is Joe Kuhel who was so weak with the bat last season that Dykes had to change the subject when anybody suggested he had been out-smarted when he gave Zeke Bonura in trade for the Washington first baseman, Kuhel's bat has been surprisingly active this spring and, if the pace is continued, Dykes will spend most of the summer giving the bird to the fellows who termed him a chump for agreeing to the swap. The remainder of the infield will be all right as long as Luke Appling and Marvin Owen answer daily roll call.

The Catchers Can't Hit.

The four man fight for catching recognition is as indefinite as when training classes opened. If you ask Dykes which of his quartet he favors, the answer is that he hasn't seen anything on which to base an opinion. He's going to continue looking them over, hoping that one of the candidates will uncover a trace of hitting ability.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 26.—The Cubs, from Manager Gabby Hartnett down to the greenest rookie, welcomed today's most unusual California downpour with open arms. Having been continuously engaged in chasing, catching, and batting baseballs since they pitched camp on Catalina Island Feb. 23, the National league champions figured the day of enforced idleness brought about by the cancellation of their scheduled battle with the White Sox in Wrigley field today was well earned.

Their schedule called for solid booking until well into the National league regular season, except for April 6, a travel date, on which the Cubs will be moving from El Paso to Corpus Christi, Tex.

They Hope for Some Sunshine.

The outlook indicates there may be further cancellations before the Sox and Cubs arrive together in the sunshine belt after leaving Los Angeles for Yuma, Ariz. All the athletes are praying for some hot weather in Yuma, Phoenix, Tucson, and Bisbee. From then on the lads will have to keep their fingers crossed. Last year they rode into a blizzard in El Paso. The ball fields in Sweetwater and Abilene, Tex., were under a foot of snow the days the Pirates and Sox were to play there. The Cubs and Browns fared no better.

The precipitation today prevented Clay Bryant, the Cubs' No. 2 pitcher, from making the first start of the exhibition season. Clay, who won nineteen games last year and expects to grab two or three more than that this season, had a sore arm and was handicapped by the cloudy and cold weather here. The conditions here have been tough, too, for those two major invalids, Dizzy Dean and Dickie Bartell.

Dizzy Hasn't Pitched.

Diz has been in uniform every day, but has not pitched an inning or in batting practice. There is no telling when he'll be able to get in shape. He is counting strongly on a heat wave in Arizona. Bartell avers that his rheumatic heel is no longer painful. Dickie has been in uniform one day and out the next. Information of a dependable nature is almost as elusive as in the case of Dean.

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY
A SPECIAL SHAVE CREAM
IT'S NOT A SOAP
NEEDS NO SHAVING BRUSH
Not Greasy . . . Leaves Skin Soft
Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. This is especially true of the man who, because of his business and social status, must shave every day.
To meet this condition, Williams has now developed a special cream for daily shavers. It's called Glider. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. After washing face thoroughly with soap and warm water to remove razor-dulling grit, spread on Glider quickly and easily with your fingers. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.
A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich, smooth cream. It softens each whisker right down to the skin, yet forms a protective layer over your face to keep blade from scraping. Swiftly and gently your razor glides over your skin without tearing or irritating. Like a cold cream, Glider helps smooth and soften your skin and prevent chapping and roughness. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.
Everett D. Hulburt
PRESIDENT
P. S.—Try Glider at our Expense: Send your name and address on a penny post card, for a generous FREE tube of Glider "No-Brush" Cream. The J. B. Williams Co., Dept. CT-29, Glastonbury, Conn.

CHINA TO CEASE SALT REVENUE LOAN ADVANCES

HONGKONG, March 26.—(AP)—Dr. H. H. Kung, premier-finance minister of China, announced today that after April 5 the Chinese Central bank will cease advancing funds for servicing loans secured by Chinese salt revenues.

The action will place these loans on the same basis as those secured by customs receipts on which the bank ceased advancing funds Jan. 15. At that time the Chinese government said China would be unable to continue full direct payment of its obligations secured upon customs receipts. It said, however, that sums representing the share of Chinese customs revenue controled by the Chunking government would be set aside by the bank of China. Dr. Kung's statement today said the same procedure would be applied to the salt revenues.

Salt revenue-secured loans affected include the Crisp loan, the Hukuang loan of 1911, the Vickers-Marconi and Chicago Continental bank loans of 1919.

Santa Fe Cuts Its February Operating Loss to $259,104

The Santa Fe railroad yesterday reported that its February operations resulted in a net railway operating deficit of $259,104. This represented an improvement over results of a year earlier, when the February operating deficit was $1,261,162. The system had gross operating revenues of $9,976,491 last month, compared with $10,053,515 in the 1938 month.

Am. Brake Shoe Acquires Kellogg Compressor Firm

Rochester, N. Y., March 26.—[Special.]—A controling interest in the Kellogg Compressor and Manufacturing corporation has been sold to the American Brake Shoe and Foundry company of New York, it was learned today. Financial details were not announced.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

THREE BIG FIRMS EARN LESS; ONE BOOSTS PROFITS

Kennecott Copper, Anaconda Hard Hit.

Drastic declines in 1938 earnings were reported yesterday by three leading industrial corporations and a sharp increase was announced by another.

E. H. Little, President of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet.

The three which earned less were the Kennecott Copper corporation and the Anaconda Copper Mining company, two of the world's largest producers and processors of minerals, and the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation. The Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, maker of soap and toilet preparations, reported the increase. It earned more than six times as much in 1938 as in 1937.

Kennecott Earnings Halved.

Kennecott Copper reported its 1938 net income was $22,689,660, equal to $2.10 a share on the common stock, compared with $49,822,394 or $4.60 a share in 1937.

Anaconda had 1938 profit of $9,542,614, equal to $1.10 a common share, in contrast with 1937 net income of $31,387,861 or $3.62 a share.

The reports of Kennecott and Anaconda both commented on the severe contraction in copper consumption in the United States during the year and noted that consumption of the metal elsewhere in the world rose to record heights.

The world armament race was primarily responsible for the increased use of the metal abroad, the reports said.

U. S. Consumption Off Third.

Domestic consumption dropped 39.8 per cent from the 1937 level, but in foreign markets deliveries increased to a record figure of 1,742,695 tons, or 8 per cent more than in 1937. By comparison with 1929, copper consumed in this country declined 51.6 per cent.

Union Carbide and Carbon, products of which include alloys and metals, gases, electrodes, carbons, batteries and synthetic organic chemicals, reported 1938 profit of $25,175,412, equal to $2.77 a share on the capital stock. This compared with 1937 net income of $42,782,128, equal to $4.75 a share.

The 1938 profit of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet was $4,921,921, equal to $1.77 a common share, compared with $782,250 in 1937. E. H. Little, president, told stockholders in his annual report that the company's earnings were the highest since 1931. The improved profits resulted, he said, from more stable raw material prices, increased profit margins and economies.

Total Sales Down Slightly.

Little said sales and profits of the domestic toilet article department were the highest since 1929. Total domestic and foreign net sales in 1938 were slightly lower than in 1937, the figures for the respective years being $99,452,741 and $99,991,355.

Net earnings of the Union Bag and Paper corporation for 1938 declined to $903,892, equal to 86 cents a share, from the 1938 level of $1,384,595, or $1.32 a share.

Corporation net income reports issued yesterday follow:

BUSINESS GETTING A MITE BETTER IN U. S., BANKERS FIND

New York, March 26.—(AP)—Business is a little better, the magazine Banking, official publication of the American Bankers' association, said today in its April issue.

The magazine's poll of 2,850 bank directors and presidents in all sections of the country indicated some improvement, with 39 per cent reporting business is getting better, 46 per cent finding conditions unchanged, and 15 per cent reporting a decline.

William R. Kuhns, editor, said business needs at this stage a "reasonable expectation of profit" for improvement in the face of extended domestic and foreign tension. He said business sentiment is "still predominantly on the optimistic side."

MARCH BUSINESS OF DEPARTMENT STORES RALLIES

Department store trade in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district in the three weeks ended March 18 exceeded that of the corresponding 1938 period by 4 per cent, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. This was a better showing compared with a year ago than was made in February.

The bank's review of business conditions said February sales were 1 per cent below the dollar volume for January, and 1.9 per cent below the level of February, 1938.

Retail furniture sales in February expanded less than usual for the season, the bank said, the increase being 16 per cent over January.

Most wholesale trade groups reported a smaller dollar volume of sales in February than in January, the declines averaging 1½ per cent.

STEEL INDUSTRY EXPECTS OUTPUT TO HOLD STEADY

Steel production will not slacken sharply because sales have fallen below expectations, the magazine Steel said yesterday. It said support in April and May will be furnished by requirements for rail, tin plate, building and engineering construction supplies, and automobile manufacturing needs.

"Sufficient business is at hand," the publication's weekly review said, "and in prospect to prevent any marked letdown in operations immediately. In fact, some producers look for better business next quarter than in the current period."

Although operations usually gain in March, the national steel rate sagged 1 point to 55.5 per cent of the industry's capacity last week.

Scrap prices were firm. A boost in eastern markets elevated Steel's composite price for scrap to $15.04 per ton. The composite for finished steel remained at $56.50.

Steamer Line Seeks Chicago Far East Trade

Thriving trade between Chicago and the far east has influenced the Isthmian Steamship company to bid for shipping business against foreign lines. The steamship line has established an office at 208 South La Salle street to reach midwest commerce more effectively, it was announced yesterday.

The company is a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, John J. Jacobs, general western freight agent, said. It operates privately with no subsidy from the federal government.

Line Reaches Many Ports.

The Isthmian line operates twenty-seven steamers between Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific ports in intercoastal trade and also to trading centers in the Mediterranean, Indian ocean, Red sea, and Persian gulf ports, as well as to the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands.

Until recently the company maintained an agency in Chicago. Promise of increased business induced the establishment of a branch office here with Jacobs in charge. He has been with the line since 1922. W. H. Smith, formerly of the New York office, has been named the district freight agent, and J. C. Lincoln is office manager.

Builds Up Steel Fleet.

The present steamship service was started when United States Steel was faced with idleness in two large shipbuilding plants at the end of the war. The corporation's solution was to start a building program for twenty-eight vessels especially designed to carry steel shipments such as heavy beams and long rails. Provision was also made to transport palm and coconut oil and liquid rubber in large tanks.

The purpose behind the aggressive program was to provide the large steel corporation with a fleet of ships which would be adapted to its peculiar cargoes and also lower shipping costs.

JOBS IN ILLINOIS INDUSTRY SHOW SEASONAL GAIN

Employment in Illinois industries in February increased 0.8 per cent compared with January, Martin P. Durkin, director of the Illinois department of labor, reported yesterday. The gain in pay rolls was 1.8 per cent, said the report, which covered 6,910 manufacturing and nonmanufacturing establishments.

The employment gain was described as normal, and the increase in wages paid as less than seasonal.

As compared with February, 1938, last month's employment showed a decrease of 3.1 per cent and pay rolls an increase of 0.9 per cent, Durkin said.

BANK BLAMES U. S. POLICIES FOR RIGID PRICE STRUCTURE

New York, March 26.—(AP)—The Guaranty Trust company, one of the largest Wall street commercial banks, today blamed the federal government in part for rigidity in prices of goods and services.

In its monthly business survey it discussed prices in relation to the federal monopoly inquiry. It pointed out that the early phase of the monopoly study apparently was aimed to determine whether a decline in competition had hardened prices and retarded business recovery.

Manufactured goods, particularly, have been considered by some economists too high in relation to raw materials and farm products, impeding trade between town and country.

The bank held that business costs, and therefore prices of goods and services, had been kept up by:

1. Government efforts to sustain or raise wage rates.
2. Increased taxes.
3. Various forms of business regulation, including state and federal legislation directed against chain stores.
4. Agricultural policies to restrict output and keep prices up.

U. S. COMPARES PRIVATE, PUBLIC ELECTRIC RATES

Washington, D. C., March 26.—(AP)—The federal power commission said today that electric rates of publicly owned utilities were "generally lower" than those of private utilities in the nation. There were some exceptions, however.

In a report on a survey made in 18,689 communities as of January, 1937, the commission said private utilities rates were 31 per cent higher than public rates for a 25-kilowatt unit in cities of more than 50,000 population.

In cities between 10,000 and 50,000 the private rate for the same unit was 11 per cent higher, the commission said. Communities between 2,500 and 10,000 population had private rates averaging 6 per cent above public rates.

In two smaller groups, however, private rates were lower, the commission said. The 1,000-5,000 population communities had private rates averaging 4 per cent lower and in the 250-1,000 population communities the private rate was 5 per cent lower.

HOUSING GRANT IS TURNED DOWN BY FORT WAYNE

City Finds Own Way; Rejects U. S. Cash.

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 26.—[Special.]—The New Deal has ear-marked $1,500,000 for a federal housing project in Fort Wayne, but Fort Wayne does not want any part of it on the New Deal's terms.

The reason is that Fort Wayne believes the project is too big and too costly and that paying for it would take too long. The Fort Wayne Housing authority has a simpler, less costly plan already in operation.

The Fort Wayne Housing authority has voted unanimously to reject the federal appropriation. The only way it would be accepted now would be for a majority of the townsfolk to demand that it be accepted, and there is little chance of that.

Local Plan Pays in 20 Years.

The Fort Wayne plan, which has attracted wide attention, consists of erecting small pre-fabricated houses on lots leased for $1 a year. Forty-nine of these houses have been erected over the city. They rent for $10 a month each, enough to pay off interest and all other charges in twenty years.

The houses are built in sections in an abandoned factory building by WPA labor. The sections are hauled to the lot where a concrete foundation has been prepared and are set up in about a day.

The lots used are those on which no private improvement is expected. While the house remains on the lot the owner does not have to pay taxes. The owner may recover his property at any time by notifying the housing authority to remove the house. This can be done quickly and easily.

By this plan each dwelling costs about $1,000.

U. S. Wants $2,000 to $3,000.

The United States Housing administration proposed to construct from 300 to 500 dwellings at a cost of from $2,000 to $3,000 a unit.

William B. F. Hall, chairman of the Fort Wayne authority, said the city did not need 300 to 500 units, but that the federal government refused to consider a proposal calling for 100 homes to let Fort Wayne see how the plan works.

Hall also objected to the federal plan to build two or three communities. He and the Fort Wayne authority believe this practice to be dangerous. Hall pointed out that the federal plan calling for high housing standards and a rental of about $9 a month would require sixty years of direct and indirect government subsidy for liquidation.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

by Frank Ridgway

Field Work to Start

March 26, 1939.

WITH almost all of the frost out of the ground, operators of the Fox river farm expected to begin field work this week. Sowing of small grain is first on the schedule. During the last few days workers have had freshly painted implements scattered over the barn yard, assembling the various units for the first rush of work in preparing ground for the sowing of wheat.

Thirty-eight acres of spring wheat will be sown on the farm this year. The first breaking plow will be stuck in the ground this week if the weather is favorable. Seventeen acres of old alfalfa sod will be broken for the wheat. The other twenty-one acres will be sown on corn stubble land where the plants were removed for silage last fall.

Certified seed of the Sturgeon variety of wheat will be sown. The seed was produced by a certified seed grower near Aurora. The seeding will be done at the rate of one bushel and three pecks per acre. The wheat will be drilled in with the spouts spaced six inches apart.

Alfalfa to Be Sown In.

Grim alfalfa will be sown in with the wheat at the rate of fourteen pounds to the acre. The farm manager says he has been about as successful in getting a good stand of alfalfa where the seed is sown in the spring as he has where the seeding is delayed until fall. He believes spring sown alfalfa seed has the advantage over fall sown seed because at this time of year there usually is plenty of moisture for germination.

In the fall the ground sometimes is too dry for the seed to sprout readily. The small plants often are slow in getting started before cold weather sets in and young seedlings are in danger of being killed during winter, according to the farm manager.

Approximately twenty acres of barley will be sown on the Fox river farm this spring. The variety known as Wisconsin No. 38 will be used. To avoid trouble with long corn stalks, the barley will be grown in a stubble field where the corn was cut low for silage last year.

More Soy Beans Planned.

The farm's acreage of soy beans will be increased this year. Black Sable and Illini varieties will be used. With favorable weather the farmers expect to plant seventy-five acres of soy beans. The crop may be used in three different ways. The plan now is to harvest some of the soy beans for the beans, some for silage, and the remainder for hay. The use of soy beans as a silage crop is expected to be increased this year, following favorable tests in this area during the last few years.

The tentative cropping plan calls for sowing about 175 acres of oats. On this farm oats still are depended upon primarily as a nurse crop in establishing grasses and legumes.

The farmers feel reasonably safe in increasing the small grain acreage this year because of the chinch bug outlook. So far the signs indicate there will be little if any chinch bug injury to small grain on the farm this summer.

EUROPEAN WAR THREATS FAIL TO BOOST WHEAT

Many Countries Now Have Emergency Reserves.

World wheat markets have been under the shadow of a European war scare for the last year. However, except for a short lived upturn last September, the threat of hostilities abroad has had little effect as a price making factor.

Many European countries, notably Germany, have accumulated large war emergency reserves of bread grains. With this exception there is no comparison between conditions prevailing in 1914 and those at the present time, brokers assert.

Within about 90 days harvesting of the northern hemisphere's new crop will be under way, and the wheat will move to elevators already bulging with a record supply of old grain. So large is the current supply that international trade is under rigid governmental control.

War Conditions Reversed.

During the world war government regulation was practiced in an effort to conserve supplies. This year it has been put into effect in an effort to dispose of the grain.

The world's wheat crop in 1938-'39, exclusive of Russia and China, aggregated 4,535,000,000 bushels, the largest on record, of which Europe secured 1,814,000,000 bushels. In 1914 the world's wheat crop was 2,884,000,000 bushels, of which 1,096,000,000 bushels represented the European harvest.

When war broke out in August, 1914, the United States already had shipped millions of bushels of cash wheat to Europe. A large part of the grain was afloat on the ocean destined for Germany. Since July 1, 1938, the department of agriculture has been able to sell only 92,000,000 bushels to all countries even after subsidizing the exports to the extent of 25 cents a bushel.

Import Buying of Wheat Lags.

Failure of importing countries to purchase wheat for forward shipment on a liberal scale is largely responsible for the sluggish action of the market in recent months, brokers assert.

Corn and other grains have been affected to some extent by the action of wheat and prices have declined.

The range of prices last week on the Chicago Board of Trade, with comparisons, follows:

CURB ROOSEVELT FISCAL POWERS, BUSINESS ASKS

U. S. Chamber Warns of Uncertainties.

Washington, D. C., March 26.—(AP)—A finance committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce today urged congress to end some of President Roosevelt's emergency fiscal powers and "remove existing uncertainties."

It said there should be outright repeal of the authority to issue $3,000,000,000 in greenbacks [provided by the Thomas amendment to the agricultural adjustment act] and of the silver purchase act of 1934.

The committee also expressed "opposition in principle to renewal of the devaluation power, in the belief that such power should repose in congress." This authority permits the President to lower the gold content of the dollar.

Favors Dollar Stabilization.

The committee approved extension of the dollar stabilization power, although it said there should be "some modifications."

Both the devaluation power and the stabilization power will end June 30 unless congress extends them. Bills for their extension are now pending before senate and house committees.

Through the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, the administration has attempted to stabilize relations between the dollar and leading foreign currencies.

In any extension of the stabilization powers, the committee maintained, consideration should be given to a requirement that the status of the fund and the extent of its operations be placed before congress at "suitable intervals."

Criticizes Silver Program.

In urging repeal of the silver purchase act, the committee estimated that the cost of the silver buying program for the five years it has been in operation had exceeded one billion dollars, "of which 82 per cent was paid for foreign silver."

It proposed "abandonment of the payment of other than the current market price for silver."

"As the present treasury stock of silver is beyond any quantity needed for monetary purposes," the committee added, "it is further urged that additional quantities not be bought, except such domestically produced silver as might be acquired in normal course under other powers than those existing in the silver purchase act."

"How I Got a Loan of $100 without embarrassment or delay."

"I needed $100 in a hurry. I dreaded to ask friends for a favor. And I had no security for getting a loan at a bank. What was I to do? Fortunately I heard about Household Finance and so went to a nearby office. The manager was courteous and friendly. He merely asked me a few simple questions. The next day I got the money with 20 months to repay. Only my wife and I signed the papers. I was delighted to get a loan so simply and promptly."

Whether you are married or single, if you need a loan of $20 to $300 the manager of the Household office near you will be glad to discuss your problem with you in complete privacy and without obligation. Why not phone or visit him today?
